VIEW,

OF THE

STATE

OFTHE

EMPIRE,

On the DEATH of the late

Emperor 70 SEPH;

WHEREIN

The Pretensions of King Charles III. the Rights of the Electors, the Government in the Interregnum, and the Interest of the Empire are consider'd.

To which are added,

The Golden Bull, the Imperial Constitutions, and the Form of Electing an Emperor.

LONDON: Printed for J. Morphew, near Stationers-Hall, 1711.

STITION.

AUSEUM.

DON'S Bill of long

MAN STOP

Into Sub and Foo of lon for wh non

Spa

the Suc

A

First of the State of the Empire, Sec.

VIEW

OF THE

STATE

OF THE

EMPIRE, &c.

HE Death of the Emperor Joseph will doubtless set the Politicians to work; and, in our News-Writers Phrase, cause abundance of Speculations. But since the Interest of Europe is at this Critical Juncture a Subject which requires mature Consideration, and that the Impatience of People to fee on what Foot the House of Austria stands on the Decease of his late Imperial Majesty, will not admit of long Discussions and Inquiries, we shall therefore not enter into the Affair of the Succession, which is now entirely in the Electoral Colledge, nor Discourse of the Pretensions of the King of Spain, farther than they relate to those Countries which are Hereditary; but give an Account of the Rise of the House of Austria, and the Dominions, which, either by Election, or Succession, have for some Hundreds of Years been in that Imperial Family. We shall then treat A 2 treat of the Constitution of the Empire, in the Golden Bull, the Methods of Electing an Emperor, a King of the Remans, and Electors, and fet this Matter, which now takes up so much of People's Thoughts in Europe, in a clear Light; that those who look into Relations of Foreign Occurrences, may be fully appriz'd of every Thing which concerns this Important Event.

of Austria and the Rife of the Imperial called.

USTRIA properly fo call'd, is Bounded on the North with Bohemia and Moravia, on the East with Hungary, on the Family, so the South with the Dukedom of Styria, and on the West with Eavaria and Saltsburg; and is almost equally divided into Two Parts by the This Province was first Govern'd by Marquisses, who were but Officiaries in the beginning; but at length were made Hereditary by the Emperor Henry I. This Marquisate was afterward rais'd into a Dukedom by Frederic Barbarossa in the Year 1158; Henry being the first Duke, whose Nephew Leopold took Richard I. King of England Prisoner, in his return from Palestin, for whose Ransom he had as much Money as bought Steimark and Lentz, and walled Vienna. His Son Frederic was made King of Austria by the Emperor Frederic II. Anno 1225; under which Title it continu'd for sometime, and then relaps'd into that of Duke, which Rudolphus of Habspurg, at the Investiture of his Son Albertes, rais'd to that of Arch-Duke. Others fay, Charles IV. gave that Title first to Rudolphus the Witty, and some place it lower, to the Marriage of Philip, Son of Maximilian of Austria, and of the Lady Mary of Burgundy with Joan Princess of Spain; but by whomsoever given, it is the only Title of Arch-Duke in the World. From this Country it is, that the House of Austria takes its Name, of which Family all the

the . 1438 Arch in h of cr pire befid and I

T has a Spain Duke creat the v away to al first Prin are The of F Grea who Year ing met, resol Bifh ctors the S chof fame Nors not each fame

ria

ed.

Fami

kc. in the Empers, and much of Light; Foreign every

Boundd Moon the
and on d is alby the r'd by the beeditary ate was rederic ng the chard I.

much d wal-King of 1225; etime, ch Ruof his Others to the of Auwith er gi-

Rudol-

in the House

ily all the Emperors of Germany have been ever since 1438, and all the Kings of Spain since 1515. The Arch-Duke, besides the Right and Sovereignty in his own Dominions, has a particular Power of creating Counts and Barons all over the Empire by an Ancient Grant, with this Privilege besides, that he cannot be deprived of his Lands and Principalities by the Emperor himself.

This House, within Three Hundred Years, The House has afforded Twelve Emperors, Five Kings of of Austria. Spain, and Forty other Kings, Cardinals, Arch-Dukes and Dukes. They have the Privilege of creating Gentlemen, Barons and Counts, thro' the whole Empire; and the Emperor cannot take away the Lands they are feiz d of to give them to another. The Arch-Duke of Austria is the first Privy-Councellor of the Empire, and his Principality is not subject to Contributions, nor are they subject to the Justice of the Empire. They derive their Dignity from Rudolphus Count of Hapsburg, on the Borders of Switzerland; a Great Soldier, and a Valiant Commander: In whole time, an Interregnum of about Twenty Years happening, and the State of Germany being in great Confusion, the Princes of Germany met, and to put an End to these Calamities, resolv'd to elect an Emperor. Wernerus, then Bishop of Mentz, propos'd Rudolphus; the Electors of Cologn and Tryers joyn'd with him; and the Secular Princes at length complying, he was chosen Emperor, A. D. 1273. and crown'd the same Year at Aix la Chapelle. The Margrave of Norimburg, and the Elector of Saxony, would not give him their Votes, till he had promis'd each of them a Daughter in Marriage: The same Request was made by the Duke of Bavaria, who was then present, and all were granted. Thus Rudolphus became ally'd to the best Families of Germany; which, in the beginning,

3

Auftria,

Stitia,

1273. Phirte,

1324.

1333.

Tyrol, 1303.

was an Honour and a strong Support to that House, and made way for further Alliances. Twill not be improper to observe here, that this Rudolphus, Count of Habsburg, was an Italian by Descent. His Ancestor Albert having marry'd the Daughter of Ottone Count of Habsburg, descended from the Ancient Kings of the Franks, and succeeded him in his Estates in Suiffert and Alface.

When he came to be Emperor by the unanimous Consent of the Empire, he had Austria, Stiria, Marchia, and Carniela, settled on his el-Carniola, dest Son Albertus; as also Schamben on Rudolphus, Marchia, as a Fee Farm of the Emperor then void. In vested in this House 1324, Albertus the Ild. had the County of Psirte in Dowry with his Wife. In 1330, Louis of Bavaria, the Emperor, Mortgag'd Schafuse and Newremberg in Switzerland to the House of Au-Carinthia, stria for Forty Thousand Crowns; and Three Years after gave it the Dutchy of Carinthia, then without a Prince, to be held in Fee of the Empire. In 1363, this Family became possess'd of the Country of Tyrol, by the Donation of Margaret Maultaschen. And in 1373, it bought Friburg in Brifgam for Twelve Thousand Crowns. In 1373, Leopold the Ild. Purchased the Earldom of Felderkchen in Nebelgovia for Six and Thirty Thousand Florins; as also Pludentz, Sargan, and Heilegenberg, and had the Government of Schawben Mortgag'd to him by the Emperor Wenceslaus. In 1456, the last Count of Ceilei being Slain, that Country was claim'd by the House of Au-The Ne. Stria as part of Styria. In 1476, Maximilian I. therlands. by a Marriage with the Princess Mary, Daughter and Sole Heiress of Charles the Hardy, last Duke of Burgundy, became in her Right posses-fed of the Earldom of Burgundy, and the Seventeen Provinces of the Netherlands. In 1496, Philip I. marry'd Johanna, Daughter and Hei-Spair, $496.

reis

al F

I

T

I

t

F

ħ

1 to that Alliances, ere, that an Itahaving of Habss of the s in Suif-

, &c.

e unani-Austria n his eludolphu, oid. In of Plirte Louis of fuse and of Au-1 Three arinthia, e of the oosses'd tion of bought crowns. arldom Thirty an, and Schawncestaus. Slain, of Auilian I. Daughly, last pollel-

Seven-1496, d Hei-

ress

ress of Ferdinand King of Spain, and by that Bohemia, Match annexed all Spain, the Kingdom of Na- Moravia, ples and Sicily, the Islands of Sardinia, Majorca Hungary, and Malta to the House of Austria. In 1527 Dalmatia. Ferdinand I. in Right of his Wife added the Croatia, Kingdom of Bohemia and Hungary, with all their Sclavonia, Dependencies, to the same Family. In Charles 1527. Milan, V. Reign there was an Accession of the 1530. Dutchy of Milan as a Fief of the Empire then void. In 1580 Philip the II. partly in Bohemia Right of his Wife, partly by Inheritance from Heredihis Mother Isabella, but chiefly by force of 1477 1520. Arms, posses'd himself of Portugal Ferdinand II. wholly reduced the Kingdom of Bohemia, to-Hungary, gether with Moravia, Silefia and Lusatia. Jofeph I. was made King of Hungary by right of Inheritance December 9. 1687. Whereas till then that Kingdom was Elective. But more than this the House of Austria has for many Ages now past enjoyed the Imperial Dignity, which scarce, as I faid before, can be transfer'd into any other House, without apparent Danger to the whole Empire. It is also in Expectation of the Dutchy of Wirtenburg falling to it. When the last Emperor Joseph then Archduke of Austria, was in 1687 Crowned King of Hungary, the States confented that the Crown should be Hereditary in the Austrian Family, and gave up an Article of the Declaration of King Andrew, by virtue of which each of the three Estates had a right to oppose the King when he contravened the Laws of the Kingdom without being reputed Offenders for taking up Arms and not submitting to his Orders.

Of the Cities and Provinces above-mention'd Loffes. many have been lost by the Injury of Time. In the 14th Century, the Counties of Habsburg, Baden and Kiburg were taken from it by the Switz. In 1415 it lost the greatest Part of the A 4

Dutchy of Schamben. In 1 529 the Turks took many places in Hungary. In 1572. Seven Provinces of the Netherlands withdrew themselves from Spain, and the French have made themselves Masters of a great part of the rest. In 1640 Portugal Revolted and fet up a King of its own. In 1648 all Alfatia was fet over to the French with Brifac and Suntgam, by a Treaty of Peace at Osnaburg. In 1659 the French gained a great part of the Spanish Netherlands by the Pyrengan Peace. By the Treaty of Nimeguen 1678 Friburg was given up to the French, as also the County of Burgundy, and all those that yet remain'd in Artois. In 1684 the French made themselves . Masters of the Dutchy of Luxemburg, and the City of that Name. In 1686 the Principality of Swibuse, with the City of that Name, was deliver'd up to the Elector of Brandenburg, and the French King breaking the Truce, took Philipsburg on the Rhine from this Family, November 1. 1688, O. S. but this and many other Places the French had taken were deliver'd up, or an Equivalent given by the Treaty of Reswick.

of

Fe

en

tit

of

CO

N

th

th

B

ri

la

al

E

d

h

The Italian Fiefs.

I shall now give an Account of all the Imperial Feudataries of greatest Note in Italy; and begin with the State of Milan, the Instalment of which Dutchy as well as of the State of Siena, the Catholick King receives from the Emperor, giving the Subinstalment of the latter to the Great Duke of Tuscany, whose Highness is also accounted amongst the Emperor's Vallals for Ponte-Mole, and other Fends which he possesses in the Lunigiana: The Duke of Savoy, in respect of that Dutchy, is comprehended amongst the German Princes, with whom he likewise concurs in the Contribution of the Monthly Roman Payment as much as any Elector, but as Prince of Fiedmont and Duke at of Avosta he is reputed an Italian Potentate, Feudatory of the Empire.

many

es of pain,

liters

tugal

1648

Brijac

burg.

f the

By

s gi-

y of

d in elves .

l the

ality

was

, and

Phi-

vem-

other

up,

wick.

Im-

taly;

nital-

State

the

atter

ligh-

ror's thich te of pre-

with ution

any Duke

ot

The House of Gonzaga, as well for its ancient Extraction, as for the Quality, and Quantity of its Princes, that under the Protection of the Imperial Eagle flourish in Italy, is very conspicuous; the Chief of it is the Duke of Mantona and Monserrat both Imperial Feuds; the next to him is the Duke of Guastalla, and the rest are the Duke of Sabioneta Prince of Bozzolo, with the Princes of Castiglione, Solferino and Vescovato, as also the Count of Novellara, all installed by Casar.

The Duke of Modena, of the most ancient and illustrious Family of Este, derives from the Emperor the Sovereignty he enjoys over Modena, Reggio, Carpi and Coreggio, of which Feuds his Imperial Majesty grants him the Instalment together with that of Rovigo.

The Duke of Mirandola of the Most Noble House of Pica of the Saxon Blood, does likewise honour the high Dominion of the Roman Empire.

The same does the Duke of Massa of the House of Cibo that came from Rome originally.

The most noble Family of Malaspina pays also Homage to Casar, for the Feuds his Majesty hath in the Lunigiana, where the most principal Branch thereof flourishes in the Marquis de Malaspina de Fosdinovo and Gragnola, after whom are accounted the Marquis of Podenzana, with those of Suvero, Olivola, Liciana, Mulazza, la Bastia, Treschietto, Villasranca and others.

In the same Lunigiana there is (beside the abovementioned Feuds of the said Malaspina's) Ponte-mole, Fivizano, and others posses'd by the Great Duke of Tuscany; Treggiana granted to the Marquis Corsini of Florence and Malgrato adjudged to Count Stanga of Cremona.

In Lombardy there is the Dukedom of Desara belonging to the House of Tizzona of Vercelli; the County of Rocca d'Arazzo belonging to the Lords Osascky; the County of Macagn to the House of Mandella of Milan; the County of Ruolo to the Family of Sessi of Reggio; and the County of Fridchi to the House of Mazzetti, and that of Gatold in the Dominion of Mantoua, with Retegno to Prince Trivultio.

In Liguria there is the Marquisate of Zuccarello, the Instalment whereof belongs to the Republick of Genova; that of Final to the Catholick King; the Marquisate of Turiglia to Prince D'Oria; the Marquisate of Pallavicino to the Family of Borra of Pavia; the Marquisates of Arquara, and Roscaforte to Philip, and Neapolion Spinola; the Marquisate of spigno to the House of Asinari; the County of Tassarolo to another Spinola; that of Millesimo to the House of Caretti; that of St. Christopher to Charles D'Oria; Savignone to the House of Centurioni, Francavilla, Campi, Mongrardino, Vergagn, and other Lords of Spinola; Moglia to the Family of Scarampi.

Preten-

The Pretensions of the House of Austria are, (1.) To the Dutchy of Burgundy, which belong'd of Right to Maximilian I. as having Married Mary Daughter and sole Heiress of Burgundy; but the then King of France refused to invest him on Pretence of the Salique Law. (2) To Transilvania, Moldavia, Walachia and Bulgaria, as Dependences on the Kingdom of Hungary. (3.) To the County of Habselurg, Baden and Kiburg. (4.) To the City of Schaffbuse. (5.) To the Kingdom of Portugal, as having actually Revolted from that of Spain. (6.) To the Du chy of Luxemburg.

The Emperor's present Titles are, Elect of the Romans, and Emperor of Germany; always August

The Titles of bhe Emperor.

orcelli; to the to the ty of d the zetti, antona,

cc.

Zuccao the e Caia to cino to uilates Neao the o anouse of "Oria; cavilla, Lords ampi. in are, ch behaving refs of see re-Salique Wala-King-f Habs-City of corrugal, f Spain.

lect of always August

August, King of Hungaria, Bohemia, Dalmatia, Croatia, Selavonia, Archduke of Austria, Duke of Burgundy, Brabant, Styria, Carinthia, Carniola, Marquis of Moravia, Duke of Luxemburg, of the Upper and Lower Silesia, of Wirtemburg, and Tecka, Prince of Swevia, Count of Habsburg, of Tyrol, Friburg and Geritia, Marquis of the Sacred Roman Empire, of Burgoin, of the Upper and Lower Lusatia, Lord of the Marquisate of Sclavonia, of the Port of Naon, and the Salt Mines.

As we have faid before, this House owes its The Gene-Original to the Earls of Habsburg, whereof alogy of Rudolphus the Fourth Earl was the first German the House of Austria. Emperor of that Family; he was Born May the Rudol-Ist. 1218. and brought up in the Court of the phus I. Emperor Frederick II. Afterward made Lord High Marshal in the Court of Ottocur King of Bohemia. In 1273, he was chosen Emperor by the Unanimous Consent of the Princes of the Empire, and Crown'd the same Year at Aix la Chapelle. He freed Germany from Robbers, and had Austria settled on his Eldest Son Albert, the first Archduke of Austria, Born July 29, 1242.

Il. He was Sirnamed Monoculus, and was the only Propagator of the Austrian Family, Albert who having vanquish'd the Emperor Adolphus of the First. Nassau, set the Imperial Diadem on his own Head. His Empress was Elizabeth Daughter of the Duke of Carinthia, Earl of Tyrol and Goritia, by whom he had One and twenty Children, but was at last killed by his own Nephew Son of his Brother Rudolphus, who died in a Convent in Italy, whither he fled for Refuge: Of the many Children he left only Albert Sirnam'd the Wise, preserved the Austrian Family; but the Empire sell from it in the next Succession, Henry Count of Luxemburg being chosen Emperor A. D. 1308.

III. His

Albert of Auftria.

III. His Son Albert II. quitting his Cloister, the Second Married the Lady Joan fole Heiress to the Earldom of Pfirte, and departed this Life in 1338; leaving two for viving Sons; Albert the Third.

and Leopold the Second.

Albert the Third of Auftria.

Albert the Third in the Division of his Fathers Inheritance between him and his Brother Leopold. had Austria, Stiria and Carinthia for his Part, in which he was succeeded by his Son Albert the Fourth Sirnamed the Patient, who by Joan Daughter of Albert Duke of Bavaria had Albert the Fifth a very Fortunate Prince, who in the space of one Year was inaugurated in the Imperial, Bohemian and Hungarian Crowns, Anno 1438. One Hundred and Thirty Years after it had been out of the Austrian Family; before which the Marquifate of Moravia, had been given him in Dowry with his Wife Elizabeth Daughter to the Emperor Sigismund, whom he succeeded in the Empire by the Name of Albert the Second; but Reigned scarce two Years and left only a Posthumous Son, who died in his Childhood.

. V. His Brother Leopold had feveral Chil-Leopold the Second dren, of whom his Son Earnest Ferreus was the Preserver of the Austrian Race for his Son.

Frederick the Fourth and Sixtb of the Empire.

VI. Frederick the Fourth, and the Sixth Ema peror of that Name, was Elected Emperor. 1440. His Empress, Eleanor Daughter of Edmard King of Portugal, bore him five Children. The Two that survived were Cunigunda given: in Marriage to Albert: And Maximilian the First of Auffria.

Maximilian the First, in whom the House of Austria was preserved. He was born at Naples in the Year 1459. In 1486 he was elected King of the Romans, his Father Frederick being yet alive. In his Reign Luther's Reformation began, the Imperial Chamber was instituted, the Empire divided into Circles, Vienna restor'd to

the

the House of Austria, and Burgundy and the Low Countries annex'd to the fame Family. His Wives were Mary Daughter and fole Heiress of Charles Duke of Burgundy, and after her Blanche Mary Daughter of Galeazzo Duke of Milan, by whom he had Margaret, who after many turns of Fortune was made Governess of the Netherlands, and Philip of whom more anon, Maximilian full of Days and Content, piously and peaceably ended his Days on the 12th of January 1519.

ter,

arl-

3381

ird,

ners

old,

, 111

oan

in

the

nno

rit

ore

een

eth

he

Al-

ars in nil-

the

ma

ror.

ed-

en.

en

nb

of

les

ng

et oe-

he to

he

VII. Philip the First stiled the Delight of Man- Philip T. kind, was born 1478. At Seventeen his Father of Spain. gave him the Government of the Low Countries and Burgundy, In 1496 he married the Princess Johanna Eldest Daughter and Heiress of Ferdinand King of Spain, in whose Right he became immediately possess'd of the Kingdoms of Arragon and Castile; but he died of a Dysentery in the Year 1519, leaving a fair Issue behind him by his Queen Johanna. His Two Sons were Charles the Fifth, and Ferdinand the First; be- House of tween which two Princes there was a Division Austria of the Provinces; whence the House of Austria divided became likewise divided into the Spanish and into the German Lines; but upon this Irrevocable Con-Spanish and Gerdition, that while there was any remaining manLines, Branches of the Male-Lines of either House, they should reciprocally succeed each other by Confraternity, without the Interpolition of Female Pretenders, unless the Males of both Houses were totally extinguished. They also add, that this League has been fince renewed by all the fucceeding Emperors and Kings of Spain; so that the Crown of Spain is but Fides Commissa, which ought to have returned to the Emperor by the Death of Charles II. without Illue.

The Spanish Line.

Charles the Fifth King of Spain Founder of this Line, was Elected Emperor of Germany at Frankfort, June 29. 1519. and was Crown'd at Aix la Chapelle in October 1520. After a long and glorious Reign he Abdicated the Empire, and left Spain to his Son Philip, whom he had by Isabel of Portugal.

Philip II. of Spain.

IX. This Philip the Second was Born 1543. made King of Sicily and Naples 1543, King of England and Ireland, in right of his Wife Mary, Daughter of Henry the Eighth, Lord of the Low Countries, and Duke of Milan 1555, and last of all King of Spain 1556. His first Queen was Mary, Daughter of John the Third King of Portugal; his Second Mary Queen of England, his Third I/abella, Daughter of Henry II. King of France; and his Fourth, Anne, Daughter of the Emperor Maximilian the Second. By the first he had Prince Charles, Born 1565, deceas'd in Prison 1568. By the Third Isabella Clara Eugenia, Born 1566, Married to Albert the Seventh of Austria, Deceas'd 1633, and Catharine Born 1567, and married to Charles Emanuel Duke of Savey on the 11th of March 1585. By the last a Son of his own Name.

Philip the Third, Born 1578, in whose Isue Philip III. the Spanish Line is continued. He Succeeded of Spain. his Father in his Kingdoms in 1598. His Queen was Margaret, Daughter to Charles Archduke of Austria, who bore him Eight Children, whereof Three died in their Infancy, the rest were, 1. Anna Maria Mauritia, Married to Louis the Thirteen King of France 1615. 2. Mary Anne, Married to the Emperor Ferdinand the Third in 3. Ferdinand Cardinal and Governor of the Netherlands. 4. Philip the Fourth, who fucceeded er of

my at d at g and
and

C.

511 is 43. ing of Mary, the and Queen

d by king of King er of y the ceas'd a Eu-

Born ike of ine last

eeded

Queen

were, wis the Anne,
nird in nor of ceeded

fucceeded his Father 1621. He had two Wives Elizabeth, Daughter to Henry the Fourth King of France, who bore him Eleven Children, but all of them either died Young, or in their Infancy, except Maria Theresia, who was Married to Louis the Fourteenth the present French King in 1660, deceased July 30. 1683; his Second Queen was Mary Anne, Daughter to the Emperor Ferdinand the Third by whom he had Issue:

1. Margaret Theresia, Married to Leopold the late Emperor in 1666.

Charles the Second, Born November 6. 1661, Charles who Succeeded in that Kingdom, at the Death the Secend of his Father Philip in the Year 1663. In 1679 of Spain, he took to Wife Mary Louisa, Daughter of will. Philip Duke of Orleans; who dying without Issue 1689, he was Married to Maria Anna, Daughter of Philip William Elector Palatine, who is yet living, a Widow: For King Charles having led a very fickly, crazy, unactive Life. he departed this Life the First of November A. D. 1700, and leaving no Issue behind him, he made a Will, [or rather one was made for him] that has laid the Foundation of the prefent War. Wherefore I shall take Leave to shew very briefly how this pretended Will was procur'd and publish'd.

'Tis Notorious to all the World, that Charles A former the last King of Spain made a Will, wherein he Will. declar'd the Archduke his Successor, some considerable time before his Death, and the Succession of the Crown was so entirely invested in him, that there was no manner of Provision made for the French Line, with which the Court of Spain was well satisfied, and there was no other Interest made in Publick nor any Heir talk'd of, but he who was already named: Thus it continued a long time before the King died, and might have done so still, if Cardinal Porto-

carero, fices, had not impos'd another upon him. This Cardinal brought in the French Interest and Faction, whisper'd the King the Injury that would be done to France if the Succession was given from her, and that there was no Right (notwithstanding the Treaty of St. John de Luz, and the Renunciation of of the French King and Queen) but what was absolutely in the Children of that Marriage. The bigotted King being more afraid of doing a thing that hazarded the Welfare of his Soul, than Consenting to a Project that might undo all the Kingdoms and Countries round about him, listened to the Cardinal, and gave him hopes of Succeeding.

· Hu loft Will.

While this Project was depending at Madrid, Measures were concerted elsewhere for the Security of the rest of Europe, by preventing the Crown of Spain from falling into any one Monarchy, whether that of Germany or France; then having agreed upon Terms according to the most reasonable way of securing the Peace of Europe, they propos'd them to France and the The French King doubtful of his Suc-Emperor. cess at Madrid, consented to what was offer'd him, and feeing no Probability of getting all, was glad to be content with a part: The Empeperor on the contrary, well affured of his Right, and not doubting but his Son would be declar'd Successor, refused to engage in that Partition, which was the difmembring of an Empire, that would one Day be actually his; and in this Affurance stood out to the last; but now comes the great Turn, the unexpected Catastrophe of the Spanish Policy.

The Cardinal Arch-Bishop, being of great Credit in the Court, and with the weak and credulous King, forms a Confederacy to help him to turn the Stream into that Channel; and in the very

Moment

Mo

to lin

his

in

Ki

Be

an

Ve

th

th

104

to

he re

Co

Ch

th

H

P

N

K

h

1

A

S

6

K

F

1

Y

Arti-This ind Fawould given (note Luz, ng and e Chil-King hazarenting gdoms to the ling.

ladrid. the Seng the Monar-; then to the eace of nd the is Sucoffer'd ng all,

Empe-Right, eclar'd tition, , that nis Alcomes phe of it Crecredutoturn e very oment

Moment of Death, when the King was given up to Contemplations of another Life, and was willing to forget every thing that might bring back his Mind to Earth again, this Falle Prelate came in with a Will of his own making, and told the King plainly, he would not give him his last Benedictions, till he had revoked his first Will, and figned that. The weak King now upon the Verge of Life, consents to any thing, rather than be deny'd Absolution, and to procure that, fign'd the Will for the Duke of Anjou, which when he had done, the Cardinal told him him he might die when he pleas'd. So he shut his Eyes and departed.

What was done by the Emperor Leopold to recover the Spanish Monarchy, what by the Confederates in favour of his Son the Archduke Charles, is fresh in our Memories, and we shall therefore proceed to the German Line of the House of Austria.

The German Line.

X. Let us now speak of the other Son of Ferdinand Philip the First Author of the German Line. His the First: Name was Ferdinand Born in Spain 1503. Crown'd King of Hungary and Bohemia in the Right of his Wife, 1527. Elected King of the Romans 1531, and Emperor 1556. His Empress was Anne Daughter to Vladislaus King of Hungary, Silter to Louis the Infant. He died 1563, in the 60th Year of his Age, and left for his Successor

XI. Maximilian the Second, who was Crown'd Maximis King of Bohemia September 20, 1562, and of Seconds Hungary, Sept. 8. in the following Year. He was likewise Elected King of the Romans the same Year, and Emperor 1564. His Wife was Mary Daughter of the Emperor Charles V. by whom he had fifteen Children. His Eldest Son Rudolphus the Second, Born June 18. 1552. Succeeded his Father in the Empire 1576. in the 25th Year of his Age. He was never Married, and dying the 16th of January 1611, left the Principal Dignity and Dominions to his Brother Matthias the First, Born 1557, and elected Emperor at Frankfort, June the 13th Mathias the Firft.

Auttria and the II. pure.

This Prince dying without Issue was Ferdinand Succeeded by his Coufin Ferdinand the Sethe III. of cond Emperor of that Name, Son of Charles Duke of Stiria, Son of Ferdinand the I. He of the Em. was twice Married ; First to Mary Anne Daughter of William V. Duke of Bavaria, and Twenty Two Years after, to Elianor of Mantua Duke Vincent's Daughter; by the First, he had Two Daughters, that lived to be of Age, viz. Mary Anne Married to Maximilian Elector of Bavaria, Deceased 1665. And Cacilia Renata to Casmire King of Poland, who died March 13. 1644; as also Two Sons, viz. Ferdinand the Third, Born July 13. 1608. And Leopold William, Born 1612, Elected Bishop of Strasburg and Passau. This Emperor died An. Dom. 1627.

XV. Ferdinand the Third of the Empire and the Fourth of Austria Succeeded in the Government of the Empire, upon the Death of his Father, having been Crowned King of Hungary 1625, of Robemia in 1627, of the Romans. 1636, and last of all Emperor in 1627, by the Name of Ferdinand III. His first Wife was Mary Anne Daughter of Philip III. King of Spain, who deceased May 13. 1646; His Second was Maria Leopoldina Daughter to the Arch-Duke Leopold V. And his Third was Eleonora Gonzaga Daughter of Charles Duke of Mantua, whom he left a Widow April 2. 1657, and she also died in 1686.

et

ne

of 0

2.

rie

16

1e

de

Igi

2124

6.

16

M

Br

ve

Ye

M

of M

of

Bo

tar

ces

All

fol

bur

gul

22.

The

Spa

De

ter

the the He had Issue by these Princesses as followeth. First,

Ferdinand Born September 8. 1633, Crowned King of Bohemia 1646, of Hungary 1647; of the Romans 1652, being the Fourth King of that Name; but died the Year following. 2. Mary Anne, Born October 12. 1624, Married to Philip IV. King of Spain November 7. 1649. 3. Philip Augustus, Born 1627, deceafed 1639. 4. Maximilian Thomas, Born 1638, deceased the Year following. 5. Leopoldus, Ignatius Franciscus, Balthazer, Josephus, Felicianus, Born June 9. 1640, the late Emperor. 6. Mary, Born and Dead the fame Year, viz. 1646. 7. Charles Foleph, Bishop of Passau, Great Mafter of the Teutonick Order, and Bishop of Breslaw, Born 1649, deceased 1664. 8. Trewesa Maria Josepha, Born 1652, deceased the Year following. 9. Eleanora Maria, Born May the 21. 1653, Married to Michael King of Poland in 1670, and after his decease, Married to the Famous Warrior Charles Duke of Lorain in 1678. 10. Maria Anna Fosepha Born 1654, Married to John William Hereditary Prince Palatine October 15. 1678, decealed April 7. 1689. And 11. Ferdinand Aloifius, Born 1657, deceased the Year following.

XVI. Leopold the First Emperor of that Name, Inaugurated King of Hungary at Prefburg June 27. 1655. of Bohemia at Prague, August 2. 1656, and Emperor at Francfort July 22. 1658. In 1666, he Married Margaret Therefa, Daughter of Philip the IV. King of Spain. who died March 20. 1673. After her Deceale he Married Claudia Felicitas Daughter to the Arch-Duke Ferdinand October 15. in the same Year; but she likewise died April the 8, 1676. He proceeded to a Third

Choice

He

was Searles

uc-

the

lar-

left

his

and

13th

He Anne and Jan-

irst. e of mili And who viz.

608. Bieror

mpire the eath King the r in His bilip 13.

ldina And er of Wi-686.

Choice who was Eleanora Magdalena Terefa, Eldest Daughter of Philip William Duke of Newburg and Elector Palatine, and was Married to her fanuary 6. 1677; by the First Venter he had Iffue, I. Ferdinand Wenceslaws, Born Septem. 28. 1677, deceased Fanuary 1668. z. Maria Antonia Josepha; Married to Maximilian Emanuel, Elector of Bavaria 1686. 3. John Born and Dead the same Year. 4. Mariana Josepha, who was Born and died the same Year 1672. By the Second, he had only Two Daughters, both short liv'd; but by the prefent Empress, he hath had Foseph, Fames, Ignatius, John, Anthony, Eustachius, the Joy and Hope of his Parents, Born Fuly 16. Old Stile, 1678, Crowned King of Hungary 1688. Mary Elifabeth Licia Therefa, Born December 12. 1680. 2. Leopold, Foseph, Philip, William, Anthony, Erasmus, Born 1682, deceased August 4. 1684. 4. Mary, Anne, Tolepha, Regina, Born September 7. 1682. 5. Mary Terefa, Born August 22. 1684. 6. Charles, Francis, Joseph, Wenceslaus, Balthazar, John, Anthony, Ignatius, Born October 1. 1685, Old Stile. 7. Maria, Josepha, Collecta, Antonia, Born March 6, 1687. And 8. Anna. Fosepha, Antonia, Magdalena, Gabriela, Born March 26. 1689, Old Stile. Foseph, who was chosen King of the Romans in 1690, Succeeded his Father A. D. 1705. He Married Wilhelma Maria, Daughter of John Frederick Duke of Hannover, in 1699, and Died the 16th of April 1711, leaving behind him Issue, Two Daughters only; and the Succession of all his Hereditary, and very probably his Imperial Dominions, to Charles III. King of Spain, &c. of the Em. The Empire is divided into ten Circles, pire the 10 and in these are comprehended the Electors, Circles. Princes, Earls, Nobility, and the free Cities

t

-1

t

0

2

G

ties of Germany; which, enjoying the Title of States, at this present, govern their respective Districts, not to enumerate the Princes and Imperial Feudataries of Italy, who, by the Exemptions to them granted at the Installments of their Estates and Feuds, remain immediately subject unto the Emperor's Person; but are not in the least obliged to conform themselves to any Laws or Statutes that are enacted in the Imperial Diets, nor to pay their Quota towards any of those Taxes or Impositions that are rais'd by the several States of Germany in those Assemblies.

Among the abovementioned Circles, that of the Lower Rhine, otherwise called the Electoral, enjoyeth the Precedence; that is to say, the Archbishops of Mentz, Triers and Colen, and the Count Palatine of Heidelbergh.

The Circle of Upper Saxony containeth the State of the Elector of that Name; as likewise the Electorate of Brandenburg, with the two Pomerania's, the Princes of the House of Saxony, of Altenburg, Coburg, Weymar, Gotha, and Eysenack, with the Prince of Anhalt, all these of the Protestant Religion; the Earls of Mansfelt, Suartenburg, Stolberg, and Gleicken, Lutherans.

The Austrian Circle, containeth the Provinces of the Upper, Lower, and Inner Austria, and the Bishoprick of Trent, and Beiffanone.

The Circle of Bavaria, comprehends the Archbishoprick of Ratisbone, Passaw, and Frisingen, the Prince Prapositus of Berchtolstat, the Dukedom of the two Bavaria's, with the Upper Palatinate, and Langraveship of Luchtenberg, lately enjoy'd by the Bavarian Elector;

B; besides

ctors, Cities

Terela,

ke of arried

Ven-

ellaus,

1668.

Maxi-

5. 3.

Mad the

had

; but

to epb,

ichius,

1 Fu-

ng of berefa.

to epb,

1682,

Anne.

5.

harles.

Fohn,

, Old

tonia ;

lepha.

ch 26.

King

ather

Maria,

nover,

1711, ghters

eredi-

omi-

besides the Palatinate of Newberg, with the Earls of Ortemburg, Stauffen, and the Free City of Ratisbone.

The Upper Circle of the Rhine, comprehends the four Bishops of Wormes, Spire, Strasburg, and Basil, with the Prince Abbot of Fulden; the Palatines of Deuxponts, Spanheim, Veldentz, and Lauteregh; the Landgraves of Hesse-Cassel, and Darmstat; the Dukedom of Savoy, and Earldoms of Nomeny in Lorain; the Prince of Aremberg; the Earls of Nassaw, Sarbruck, Salm, Hannau, Leininghen, Waldeck, with the Rhinegraves; the ten Cities of Alsatia, those of Francfort, Wormes, Spire, Landaw, and all Wetteraw.

That of the Lower Saxony, contains the Archbishopricks of Magdeburg, and of Bremen, now reduc'd into secular Dukedoms; the sirst belonging to the Elector of Brandenburg, and the other to the Crown of Sweden, by Virtue of the Osnabrug Peace; likewise the Bishoprick of Hildersheim, the Dutchy of Brunswick, of Mecklenburg, of Lawenburg, and of Holstein; the County of Blanckemburg, and the Free Cities of Bremen, Lubeck, Hamburg, Goffar, and others.

In the Franconian Circle, there are the Bishops of Bamberg, and of Wurtzburg, who is also Duke of the East Saxony, and of Eichstadt with the Grand Master of the Teutonick Order; the two Marquisses of Brandenburg, Culmpach, Onelsbach, vulgarly denominated from the Places of their Residence; the Princes of Bareith and Ansbach; the Earls of Erpach, Hoenloe, Verthaim, Swartzemberg, with the Free Cities of Norimberg, Rotenburg, Sweinfort and others, which are all Lutherans, except the Ecclesiasticks, and some sew Seculars.

Bif

fev

M

of thi

Bi

fter

in

H

Pr

na

CC

of

ri

at

Sa

fic

D

P

fi

D

the the Ci-

iends burg, lden ;

entz. -Cafavoy, the Sarwith atia. and the men, the burg, , by the Brund of and

urg, Bio is

fadt der: ach, the Baoenree and the

The

The Circle of Suevia or Schwaben. hath the Bishops of Ausburg, Constance, and Coire, with seventeen Abbots, and fix Abbesses, the two Marquisses of Baden and Durlack, the Duke of Wirtemberg, about fifteen Earldoms, and thirty Free Cities.

The Circle of Westphalia, containeth the Bishops of Leige, of Paderborne, of Munster, and of Osnabrug, this last was lately in Possession of a Lutheran Bishop, of the House of Brunswick; but now of a Popish Prince of Lorain, and so is to remain alternately in a Papist and a Protestant. It also comprehends the fecularifed Bishopricks of Minden, Werden, Halberstat, Razeburg, Swerin, and Camin, possessed some by the Ele-Ator of Brandenburg, some by the King of Sweden, and some by other Princes: Befides, there are reckoned in this Circle the Dukedoms of Juliers, Cleves, and Berghen, the Princes of Nassaw, and East Friezeland, about fifteen Earldoms, and the Cities of Colen, or Dortmond, and others.

The Circle of Burgundy takes in the Archbishop of Befancon, the Provinces of Burgundy, Brabant, and others, which acknowledge the Jurisdiction of the Emperor, though Burgundy is now no more fummoned.

Every one of the aforementioned Circles Directors hath its Directors, and Chiefs of the Militia of the Circhosen by the Majority of Votes of the States cles. of the Circle affembled; and most commonly they are one Ecclesiastick, and one Secular of the best Rank; unto whom are directed from the Emperor, or from the general Diets, all Orders and Commissions; and to whom it belongs, in case of any pressing Extremity to fummon the circular Diets, receive the Collections, bring the Soldiery B 4 together, together, and remedy all Inconveniences that may arise. Into these Assemblies are admitted not only the Ecclesiasticks, and Secular Princes, with the Earls, but the free Nobility also; viz. a Deputy for every Prince of the said Nobility (in the same Form as the Abbots and Earls use to appear in the general Diets) who in these Circular Assemblies enjoy the Privileges of sitting and voting; and in them care is taken to provide for all Necessities of the Circle: And Matters subordinate to the highest Tribunals of the Empire, and to the universal Diets, are here also debated.

These universal Diets ought to be notified by the Emperor himself, six Months before the prefixed time; who transmits the Dispatches thereof to the Elector of Mayence Great Chancellor of Germany; whose Office it is to give immediate Notice thereof to all his Brother Electors, and to the forementioned Directors of the Circle, and these to all the Members and States of their respective Jurisdictions; specifying unto them, the Place where the Diet is to assemble, which ought to be a free City; and this by Virtue of the Golden Bull, and confirmed by the Emperor Charles V. who ordered that the Circular Assemblies should join and meet in one of the faid free Cities, as 'tis punctually observed by Seven of the said Circles; only it must be remarked, that the Electoral, and Au-Avian, and the Burgundian are exempted from

In the same general Diets, beside the Provisions which are made relating to the publick Good, there are new Laws instituted, and the old ones interpreted: 'Tis here that all Resolutions of Peace or War are made; that all Delinquents, whether Electors, Princes, or States are condemned by the Imperial Ban, new Princes admitted

Diets.

re are are are free every rm as genees ennd in flities o the e uni-ed by e the tches Changive other ors of s and ecifyis to ; and rmed i that eet in tually nly it 1 Aur from Proviublick ad the Lefolu-Delintes are princes mitted admitted to the Session, and Vote; the Grievances in Ecclesiastick and Civil Matters decided; and in fine, all Matters, wherein the publick Good is concerned, are here concerted and established: And therefore, the Emperor himfelf is bound, whenfoever Sickness or some unavoidable Necessity does not hinder him, to appear personally; at least, at the Propositions which in his own Name, ought to be made by the Vice-Chancellor of the Empire, to the States affembled. But this is now neglected, and as Matters are managed at prefent, the Electors (he of Mentz excepted) and other Princes are, upon any small light Excuses dispenced from this Trouble, supplying their Absence by sending other Deputies and Ministers to the Diet.

The Order which is kept, in the making the faid Propositions, is as followeth. First, all this Body assembleth in a great Hall, and there the Emperor, affifted on one fide by the great Marshal, and on the other by the Vice-Chancellor of the Empire, takes the first Place under an elevated and Majestical Throne; the Electors of Mentz, Bavaria, and Saxony fit on the right Hand; and on the Left, those of Colen, Brandenburg, and the Palatine; and in the middle, diametrically over against the Emperor, the Elector of Triers: At a little Distance there stand leaning on two small Tables, different one from the other, the Directors of Mentz for the Electoral College, and those of Salzburg, or of Austria for the other Princes; and these set down in Writing all that is discours'd in that Assembly.

The King of Bohemia, though he enjoys the Prerogative of Elector, yet not being accounted into the Number among the States, abstains from appearing at the Diets, and only comes to the Congress, where the Election of the King of the Romans is under Debate; wherein he takes the first Place among the Secular Electors; and, in case of Discrepancy of Votes, is the Arbitrator or Umpire.

Below the aforesaid Electors, there are two Banks or Seats on both Sides of the Hall; one for the Ecclefiastick Princes, and the other for the Secular; on the first sit the Archduke of Aufria, the Duke of Burgundy, and the Archbishop of Saltzburg; who, in all the Sessions, wherein the Discussion of new Matters is propos'd, alternately take, as well in Publick as Private, their Precedence in the College and Order of Voting: Now Burgundy being always annex'd to Austria, whenever it fo falls out that Saltzburg is to give place to Auftria, he ought to fit under Burgundy. After these, follow the Archbishops of Befancon, the great Master of the Tentonick Order, and the Bishops of Bamburg, Wormes, Wurtzburg, Archstat, Strasburg, Constance, Auspurg, and Hilder-Sheim, Paderborne, Ratisbone, Passam, Trent, Basil, Liege, Coire, and Munster; after them the Abbot of Fulden, the Superintendent of Campiduno, Eluanghen, Berchtols gaden, Brin, Stable, and Corfey; and at last the ordinary Abbots, that are not Princes of the Smabian Circle, and that of the Rhine.

All the above said Episcopal Churches are provided of their several Chapters, which have the Just eligendi, but under a prefix'd Time; which being expired, and the Canons not come to any final Agreement, the Court of Rome taketh it into Hand, and the Elected is bound to receive his Confirmation from his Holiness, and the Installment from the Emperor: Almost all of them have Jurisdiction both in Spirituals and Temporals, and if not in the City it self, at least in the Diocess; and no Canons are qualified for the passive Voice, unless they can shew their Nobility for three or four Descents, both on Father's

and

H

Sn

te

ftr

lo

fte.

gr

in

OL

NO

for

he

Au-

op

ein

er-

eir

ng:

ria,

ive

ady.

cons

the

rch-

der-

afil,

Ab-

uno,

and

that

that

pro-

the

hich

any

th it

ceive

e In-

them

mpo-

n the

r the obili-

thei's

and

and Mother's Side; yet the Statutes of the Metropolitan Chapter of Colen, require those Proofs only of titular Houses of Earls, and Princes of Germany: But such as are admitted only to the active Voice, 'tis sufficient if they are of ordinary Families, and Doctors of Law or Theology.

On the fecond Bank or Seat, at prefent the Duke of Bavaria takes the first place, and then the Administrators of the former Archbishoprick of Magdeburg, who is a Relation of the Elector of Saxony, and after his Death the Elector of Brandenburg will obtain this Place in Quality of Duke of the same; then follow the Houses Palatine of Lantern, Simeren, Newburg, the Dukedom of Bremen belonging to the Crown of Sweden, the Palatine Duke of Znaybrug, and that of Lantereck; the Dukes of Saxony, Altemburg, Coburg, Weimar, Gotha, and Eysenach; after them the two Marquisses of Culmbach, and Onolzbach, of the Electoral House of Brandenburg; the Dukes of Brunswick, divided into Four Votes, Zell, Grubenhagen, Calemberg, and Wolfenbuttull; the Principality of Halberstat, appertaining to the Elector of Brandenburg; the Dukedom of Wirtemburg; the Principality of Verden, annex'd by the Treaty of Munster to the Crown of Sweden; the two Marquisses of Baden and Durlack, who likewise vote for his Principality of Hochberg; the two Landgraves of Heffe Caffel and Darmstat; the lower Pomerania, belonging to Sweden, and the upper to Brandenburg; the two Dukes of Mecklenburg, Swerin. and Gustrau; all which Houses, beginning from Wirtenberg, alternately take Precedence in Imitation of Austria and Saltzburg. Then follow the Duke of Saxe-Lauenburg; the Principality of Minden, belonging to Brandenburg; the Dukedom of Holstein, under the King of Denmark; the Landgraveship of Lenchtenberg, possessed by Bavaria; the the Duke of Savoy, the Prince of Anhalt; the Earldom of Henneberg, possessed by the Palatine of Nemburg; the Principality of Hirsfeldt, given to Hesse Cassel; the Earl of Mompelgard, of the House of the Dukes of Wirtenberg; the County of Nomeney, belonging to the Duke of Lorain; and the Princes of Aremberg, Hoenzollern, Eggenberg, Lobcowitz, Averspergh, Nassaw Seighen, and Nassau Hadamar, that of East Friesland, and that of Furst enberg.

The Order of this Bank is concluded and compleated by the Suevian, Wetteravian, Franconian, and Westphalian Circles; the Deputies of which change their Session in the Form abovemention'd: The late Bishop of Osnabrug being a Protestant, had a Seat by himself by the Bishops fide, and voted with them. 'Tis to be observ'd, that the Representatives and Ambassadors of the afore-nam'd Electors and Princes do not take the proper Place of their Masters, in the perfunal Presence of the other Electors and Princes, but give them the Precedence in the fitting, tho' not in the voting, except the Deputies of Saltzburg, Austria, and Burgundy, all which, in the College of Princes, do not ftir for any Body; the now Elector Palatine pretending to do the same amongst the Secular Princes, as being the first Duke.

Free Ci-

As for the Deputies of the Free Cities, 'tis usual with them at their opening of the Diets, to hear the Propositions standing; but in their College they are divided into two Ranks; that is to say, into the Rhine Circle, which comprehends Colen, Aix la Chapelle, Strasburg, Iubeck, Wormes, Spires, Frankfort, Agenhau, Colmar, Schelstat, Bremen, Milhausen, Northausen, Vaissenburg, Landau, Obernheim, Kaiserberg, Munster of St. Gregory, Rosheim, Turckeim, Fridberg, Weztlar, Geinhausen, and Hamburg; and into the Suevian

b

W

OI

fu

T

Pr

Circle

the atine

iven

the

unty

rain ;

Eg-

ghen,

, and

and

Fran-

uties

oove-

ing a hops

rv'd,

of the

take

erfu-

inces,

tho

Saltz-

n the

Body;

o the

g the s, 'tis

Diets,

their

that mpre-

ubeck,

Schel-

nburg,

of St.

eztlar,

nevian Circle

Circle, in which are accounted the Cities following, Regensburg or Ratisbone, Ausburg, Nuremberg, Ulm, Esting, Reutling, Nordling, Rottenburg, Holl Uberling, Rotweil, Hailbron, Cheminden, Memming, Landau, Dunchels pull, Biberack, Ravensburg, Vinsheim, Suainfurt, Kempten, Kaufbaieren, Vanghen, Insy, Laitekerken, Wumpfen, Ghienghen, and Offenburg, Waitfemburg, Zell, Aalen, Popfingben, Puechora, Puechau, Breghenback, and every one of them enjoyeth the Prerogative of a decisive Vote.

Besides the afore-mention'd Cities, there are feveral others in Germany; which, tho' they be not admitted into the College, neverthelefs usurp the same Liberties and Freedoms; as Dantzick, Brandenburg, Wismar, Rostock, Gripswaldt, Magdeburg, Lipfick, Jena, Vratiflavia, or Breslaw, and heretofore Brunswick and Ertford, * lately fubdu'd; all which were partly com- * in the prehended in the Hanstatick League, and partly Year 1664. living under their own municipal Laws, acknowledge their Princes to be no more than their Protectors: All these Free Cities live under a popular Government, democratical or mixt and only Norimberg preserves an Aristocracy; the Forty chief Families of that City abstaining from all forts of Mechanick or Liberal Arts whatfoever, and even avoiding the Title of Do-Aorship; yet, notwithstanding all this, they are esteem'd much Inferior to the other Nobility, altho' of an inferiour Class; and this for their being subject to the Magistrate of the City, whose Jurisdiction in Germany extends it self only to the Plebeans; and the Nobleman who submits himself to it, is ipso facto degraded. The Two Colledges, the Electorate, and that of the Princes will be treated of afterwards.

The next Thing we shall mention, is the Golden Bull granted by the Emperor Charles IV. which is the Foundation of the Imperial Constitutions.

CHARLES, &c.

We declare by this present Edict, which shall continue in Force for ever, That when there shall be occasion to choose a King of the Romans, or an Emperor, that when our Electors shall take their Journey to the Place of the said Election, every Prince Elector shall be obliged to send a safe Guard to the Travelling Electors, that he may safely go through his Dominions, and further if it's requisite, to the Place of Election; and the same shall be observed at his Return, under the penalty of losing for that time only, his Vote in that Election.

by all other Princes, Earls, &c. of the Empire, under the pain of losing their Fiefs, and other their Possessions, Rights, Privileges, and be guitly of the Imperial Ban, &c.

We likewise Command, That all Cities, Towns, &c. through which the Electors shall pass, do furnish them with all sorts of Provisions, &c. at Reasonable Rates, under the Penalties above-mentioned.

And if any Prince, Earl, &c. City, Town, &c. Should lay an Ambush, or by any kind of Treachery stop or hinder the Passage of an Elector, or his Deputy, in going or coming to or from the Place of Election; we declare them guilty of Rebellion.

And for their greater Security, and the Performance of this Edict, our Will and Pleasure is, That all Electors, Princes, &c. oblige themselves by their Oaths and in Writing, to perform them bona side under the aforesaid Penalties.

ti

ni

go

th

bi

by

gi

fai

fre

cto

tie

Fo

And the we Command all Electors, co. to give a fafe Guard and Conduct to each Elector or his Deputy; yet we think it necessary however to assign each Elector what Guards they shall have in going to, or coming back from, the Place of Election.

The King of Bonemia, Arch-Cupbearer of the Empire, shall be guarded by the Archbishop of Mentz, by the Bishops of Bamberg and Withbourg, by the Bargraves of Nuremberg and of Huendo.

The Arch-bishop of Colen, Arch-Chancellour of the Empire in Italy, shall be guarded by the Arch-bishops of Mentz and Triers, by the Count of Palatine of the Rhine, and by the Landgrave of Hesse, &c.

The Arch-bishop of Triers, Arch-Chancellour of the Empire in Gallia and in the Kingdom of Arles, by the Arch-Bishop of Mentz, and by the Count Palatine of the Rhine.

The Count Palatine of the Rhine, Arch-Master of the Empire, by the Arch-bishop of Mentz.

The Duke of Saxony, Arch-Marshal of the Empire, by the King of Bohemia, and the Marquis of Brandenberg.

We also Command, that each Elector give timely Notice to those through whose Dominions he is to travel, which way he intends to go, that they may fend Conduct and Guards to the Place appointed.

We likewise Ordain, That the then Archbishop of Mentz shall send his Circular Letters, by Expresses, to every Elector in particular, to give them Notice of the Time and Place of the said Election, which shall be Three Months from the Date of the Letters, when the Electors shall repair in Person, or by their Deputies to the City of Frankfort upon the Meyn. The Form of these Letters, and of the Powers given ol-

And

IV.

on-

ich

bere

or heir

very uard

y go

qui-

Shall

alfo

oire,

ther

i be owns,

rnilb

Sona-

Oc.

reactor,

trom

uilty

Per-

afure

hem-

per-

the Deputies, shall be exhibited at the End of

fo

th

E

f

0 if

ha

di

th

Ro

if

fai

El

te

ad

on En

(w

the

be

COL

this present Edict.

The Arch-bishop of Mentz, having certain News of the Death of the Emperor, or of the King of the Romans, shall in a Month's Time, from the Day he has receiv'd the News of the faid Death, give Notice of it to all the Electors by his Circular Letters; and if the faid Archbishop should neglect it, then the Electors, without Intimation, shall in three Months repair to Francfort to choose an Emperor or a King of the Romans. But none of the Electors, or their Ambaffadors, shall enter into Francfort at the Time of the Election with more than 200 Horse; 50 of which are only to be armed. And if any Elector, after having such Notice to appear, shall refuse or neglect to come or fend his Deputies thither with full Powers; or if being come, he retires before the Election be made, without leaving a Deputy, he shall for that Time only lose his Vote in the Election. And that the Election may proceed regularly, we command all the Inhabitants of Francfort, to protect the Electors and their Retinues from any Kind of Infult or Affronts; and if any Quarrel should arise, to pacify it immediately, under Pain of Forfeiting their Rights and Priviledges. And to the end that Peace may be preserved, they shall not fuffer any Stranger to come into their City during the Time of the Election.

The Election of the King of the Romans.

The Electors having made their Entry in the City of Franckfort, fall go in a Morning to the Church of St. Bartbolomew the Apostle; and having assisted at the Mass of the Holy Ghost, the Gospel of St. John being laid before them, the Ecclesiastical Electors laying their Hands on their Breasts, Breafts, and the Secular Electors laying their Hand on the Gospel, the Archbishop of Mentz shall administer to them, and take with them the following Oath:

I N. Archbishop of Mentz, Swear upon this Holy Gospel, and by the Faith I owe to GOD and the Holy Roman Empire, that according to my best Abilities, and with the Help of GOD, I will Elect such a Perfon for King of the Romans, whom I shall think worthy of that Dignity, and that without any Solicitation, private Interest, Hopes of Reward, Promise, or Expectation what soever : So help me GOD and his Saints.

After having taken the faid Oath, the Electors shall proceed to the Election, and shall not go out of Franckfort, till the Election be made. And if in thirty Days, from the Day they began, they shall not have concluded the Election, they shall have no other Subfiftance but Bread and Water, during the rest of the time that the Election continues, and until it be finish'd.

After the Electors, or the greater Number of them, have made their Choice of a King of the Romans, the Election shall stand as effectually as if all of them had unanimously voted for the same Person. It is also provided, That if an Elector or his Deputy shall come to Francfort after the Election is begun, he shall however be admitted to the Election.

The King of the Romans, foon after his Election, and before he administers any Affairs of the Empire, shall by his Letters Patents confirm (without delay) the Privileges, Rights, &c. of the Electors, Princes, Towns, which they enjoy'd before his Election, and shall do the same if he comes to be Emperor. We in the to the nd hat, the n, the realts,

d of

tain the ime,

the

tors

rch-

vith-

ir to

the

Am-

ne of o of

ctor,

efule

ither

tires

ing a

Vote

pro-

tants

their

onts;

t 1m-

ights

Peace

tran-

me of

We also decree, That in case three Electors present, or the Ambassadors of the absent, shall make choice of an Elector present or absent to be King of the Romans, the Vote of the Elected, if he is present, or the Vote of his Ambassador if he is absent, shall prevail and make the greater and decisive Number.

The Places of the Arch-Bishops of Triers, Colen, and Mentz.

To prevent Disputes and Disserences which may arise between the Arch-bishops of Mentz, Colen, or Triers, about Precedency in Imperial and Royal Assemblies; we by and with the Confent and Advice of all the Electors, have ordain'd by this present Edist, which shall continue in Force for ever, that the Arch-bishop of Triers shall sit over against the Emperor; he of Mentz shall sit in any Country whatsoever, the Province of Colen excepted, on the Right-hand of the Emperor; and he of Colen upon the Right-hand also.

Of the Princes Electors in general.

We likewise decree, That whensoever the Emperor, or the King of the Romans, shall be present in the Imperial Assemblies, or shall sit in Council, at Table or in any other Place with the Electors, the King of Bohemia, as a Crowned Head, shall sit next to the Arch-bishop of Mentz or Colen; the Count Palatine next to him; the Duke of Saxony shall sit on the Emperor's Lest-hand, and the Marquess of Brandenbourg next to the Duke of Saxony. The Elector of Mentz, when the Empire is vacant, shall have Power alone to convoke Electors to the suture Election;

and

lo of ha A

an

his and fha

an

fha The

fha

in

Par full Per ceiv veft Hon lefs man the I fhall of the Power when

Adn

any t

and shall receive their Suffrages after the following manner. He shall first ask the Opinion of the Elector of Trier, whom we declare shall have Power to give the first Vote; then the Arch-bishop of Colen; thirdly, the King of Bohemia; 4thly, the Count Palatin; 5thly, the Duke of Saxony; 6thly, the Elector of Brandenburg; and Lastly, the Arch-bishop of Mentz shall give his Vote.

In performing the Ceremonies at the Imperial and Royal Feasts, the Marquis of Brandenbourg shall give Water to wash the Emperor's Hands, and the King of the Romans; the King of Bohemia shall give the Cup; the Count Palatin shall bring in the Dish of Meat, and the Duke of Saxony shall act as High-Marshal of the Empire.

The Rights of the Count Palatine, and the Duke of Saxony.

When the Imperial Throne is vacant, the Count Palatin shall be Vicar of the Empire in the Parts on the Rhine, Suabia, and Franconia, with full Power to administer Justice, to nominate Persons, to all Ecclesiastical Preferment, to receive the Revenues of the Empire, to give the Investiture of all Fiefs, and to take their Oaths and Homage in the Name of the Empire; nevertheless they shall be renew'd by the King of the Romans after he is elected, but the Fiets of Princes, the Fiefs invested by the Delivery of a Standard, shall be given only by the Emperors, or the Kings of the Romans; and the Count Palatin during his Administration shall have no Power to alienate any thing belonging to the Empire.

The Duke of Saxony shall also have the same Power, and on the same Conditions in all Places where the Saxon Law is observed: And tho by ancient

C 2

which lentz,
perial Condain'd nue in Triers
Mentz
ovince
e Emhand

ftors shall

o be

, if

or if eater

olen,

er the hall be hall fit e with owned Mentz n; the Mentz, Power lections

and

ancient Custom, the Emperor and the King of the Romans are obliged being sued at Law for Debt to give their Answers before the Count Palatin; yet that Count shall not exercise that Jurisdiction in any Place but in the Imperial Court, where the Emperor and the King of the Romans shall be present.

The Precedence of the Electors above all the other Princes.

We ordain that in all Ceremonies and Imperial Assemblies, all the Princes Electors shall precede every other Prince of that Quality and Dignity soever; and that the King of Bohemia shall have Pre-eminency, and place before any other King whatsoever.

The Succession of the Electors.

To prevent all Causes of Offence and Differences between the Sons of the Secular Electors, concerning the Right of Election, and the Dangers of long Delays; we decree by this perpetual Edict, that in case one of the said Electors should die, his Eldest Son being Legitimate, and a Secular Prince shall Ipso facto, have the same Electoral Right his Father had, and in case the Eldest Son should die, his Eldest Son being a Secular, shall succeed him in the same Right; and if the Eldest Son has no Issue, his younger Brother Legitimate and Secular shall have the same Power and the Succession fo regulated, shall continue for ever: But if the Elector or his Rightful Suc cessors leave Male Children that are Minors, the next of Kin shall administer the Office till the Heir be of full Age, and then the Administrato shall immediately furrender the Power and Office

1

n

gi

ar

all

to an

Go

Sal

fou

the

rec es,

D31

of the Debt latin; liction where hall be

C.

e other

Impees shall ty and Sohemia are any

17 60 1

DiffeElectors,
he Dans perpeElectors ate, and he fame cafe the ng a Seht; and Power continue ful Sucnors, the till the niftrato and Office of Elector, which he held in their Names. And if any of his Dominions should be vacant to the Profit of the Empire, the Emperor or the King of the Romans shall dispose of them as they please without Prejudice to the Privileges of Bohemia, who have Right to elect themselves a King. [So it was then.]

The Priviledges of the Subjects of Bohemia.

As the Privileges granted by our Predecessors, and confirmed by us to all the Subjects of Bobemia, Viz. That none of them under any Pretence whatsoever shall be summoned out of that Kingdom, to appear before any other Court but that of the King of Bobemia, we do determine, that if any of the said Subjects should be summoned to appear before any other Court, they shall not be obliged to appear; and all Judgments given against them for not appearing shall be void: Nor shall the said Subjects have Power to appear in any Case to any other Court but to that of their King; and if they do, the Sentence of all other Tribunals shall be declared null and void to all Intents and Purposes.

The Gold and Silver Mines and other Mettals.

We hereby order that the Kings of Bohemia, and all the Electors, shall quietly possess all the Gold and Silver Mines, and those of other Metals, Saline, with the Profits of Salt, and Springs already found, and those that shall be found hereafter in their own Dominions, and shall have Power to receive Jews in their Dominions, and raise Taxes, and Customs, &c. as they have done in times past.

The

The Coin.

The King of Bobemia shall have Power to coin Gold and Silver in all his Dominions, to purchase Castles, Lands, &c. take Mortgages, &c. on Condition that those Estates shall pay the usual Duties to the Empire; which Power we also grant to all the Electors and their Successors under the same Condition.

The Election of the Princes Electors.

We also decree, That all the Subjects of the Electors of Colen, Mentz and Triers, shall appear only in all Causes whatsoever, before their Princes Courts, and no where else, and that Sentences given against them in other Courts, shall be null and void. Also that none of the Subjects of these Electors shall appeal from the Judgment of their Courts, and if any do, those Appeals shall be void. But if Justice be denied to the said Subjects by their Princes, they shall then have Liberty to appeal only to the Imperial Court. The same Right is hereby granted alfo, to all other Secular Electors and their Successors, and to their Successors under the same Limitations.

The Assemblies of the Electors.

We, with the Advice of all the Electors, Princes now assembled at Nuremburg, have ordained, That the said Electors for the suture, shall meet in Person in one of our Imperial Cities once a Year, a Month after Easter, and that for this present Year, we shall hold such an Assembly at that time in our City of Metz, and then will appoint

Pred be All

rat

the ror to To no ons

rev

1

Val hold nou feiz Lor void and unde clare we of n

thall

point a Place where we shall meet again the next Year, and do promise to protect and guard the Princes going to, or returning from the appointed City; and that expediting Assairs, may not be delay'd by the usual Feasts happening in those Assemblies, we command, that no general Entertainment be made, but private, and moderate Treats only.

Of the Revolution of Privileges, &c.

We by this present Edict do declare, that all the Privileges granted by us, or by the Emperors and Kings of the Romans our Predecessors, to any Body of what Quality soever, Cities, Towns, &c. or to be granted hereafter, shall in no way prejudice to the Liberties and Jurisdictions of the Electors, tho it is expressed in the Grants of those Privileges that they shall not be revoked.

Of those that are deprived of their Feudatory Estates.

Forasmuch as in many Places of the Empire, Vassals resign and renounce the Fiefs which they hold of their Lords, and that after such a Renounciation, they claim a Right to declare War, seize the same Fiefs against the Right of their Lords, we declare these Renunciations to be void, except they be legally and freely made, and that whoever shall act to the contrary, or under that Pretence, shall trouble their Lords, shall lose their Fiefs, be declared Infamous, be put to the Ban of the Empire, and shall be declared uncapable to possess those Fiefs again, and we order the Investiture given to them to be of no Effect.

C 4

The

Prinined, meet nce a this oly at ll appoint

coin

chase

. on

ufual

alfo

fthe

l ap-

their

that

urts,

f the

the those

enied

shall

d ale Li-

The Conspiracies. Oh Des Casy

We Condemn and declare Null and Void all Conspiracies and unlawful Assembles, under any manner of Pretences held without the Confent of their Species, those excepted only, which are held for the Preservation of the Publick Peace against them; and those who for time to come shall make such unlawful Conventions, besides the Pains expressed against them by the Laws, shall be declared Infamous, Fined to pay Ten Pounds in Gold, and if a City, a Hundred Pounds of Gold, one Moiety to the Emperor, and the other to their Lord.

Halburghers, or those who have lost their Freedom.

Being informed that feveral Burghers and others in Contempt of their Natural Duty to their Superiors, have in time past, and to this Day continue to make themselves Burghers and Subjects of other Cities and Towns, to defraud their Natural Lords of their Right over them; we by the Advice of the Electors, Princes, &c. have decreed by this present Constitution, that fuch Subjects shall no way enjoy the Privileges of the Cities, &c. where they have bought their Freedoms to the Prejudice of the Natural Superiors, unless they actually reside in those Cities, notwithstanding any Privileges obtain'd by them to the contrary; which we declare Null, and whoever shall transgress this Law for the Future, shall pay an Hundred Marks of pure Gold, one Moiety to the Empire and the other to their Lords.

of Challenges.

and if you all to that Proced to the Fletilon

We Declare that those who under Pretence of a just Cause that Challenge any Person in a place which is not his ordinary Abode, shall have no Power to spoil his Lands or burn his Houses: And that those kinds of Challenges are unlawful, unless they be made Publickly and before sufficient Witness, otherwise he that fent the Challenge shall be noted of Infamy, and punish'd as a Traytor by our Judges. We also forbid private Wars, Burning, unlawful Impofitions, and Exactions for fafe Conduct under the aforesaid Penalties.

The Tenor of Letters of Summons to the Place of Election of the King of the Romans.

To the most Illustrious Prince, Lord, &c. the Marquis of Brandenbourg, High Chancellor ot the Holy Roman Empire our Collegue and Dear Friend: We hereby give notice of the Election of the King of the Romans, which for good Reasons ought to be immediately; and therefore invite you according to the Duty of our Office, and the Customs of the said Election, that in Three Months time from the Date of such a Day, you come your felf or fend your Ambassadors of Proxies, one or more with full Powers, to the appointed Place to Advise, Treat and Agree, (according to the Sacred Laws made for that Purpose) with other Princes, your and our Colleagues, about the Election of a King of the Romans, who shall hereafter by the Grace of God be Emperor, and to stay in the same Place till the Election be over, and to act as is order'd by the Sacred Law Establish'd for that purpose, and

rs and reedom.

Doiou

Years Frince oid all under

e Cononly,

Pob-

10 for

onven-

them

Fined

City, a

to the nty to to this ers and lefraud them; es, Oc. n, that vileges bought Vatural those btain'd declare is Law arks of ind the

Of

A View of the State of the Empire, &c.

and if you fail we shall Proceed to the Election with the rest of your and our Collegues, according to the Authority of the said Laws, notwithstanding you or your Ambassadors Absence.

The Form of a Deputation to be given to the Elector who sends his Proxy.

We by the Grace of God, &c. and of the Holy Empire, oc. be it known to all, that for just and reasonable Causes the Election of the King of the Romans is to be speedily made; and fince we earnestly defire, as we are obliged in our own Honour and the Honour of the Empire, it may not be exposed to any Danger by delay: We being fully perfuaded of the Fidelity, Ability and Prudence of our Dear and Welbeloved, &c. have Nominated and appointed them to be our True, Lawful and Special Proxies, to Advise and Agree with the rest of our Collegues about the Election of a Person fit to be King of the Romans; and to take in our Names the Neceffary Oaths, and do every thing respectively as if we were Personally present, promifing to Ratifie and Confirm what shall be Concluded by them in our Names.

Of the Union of the Principality of the Electors, and of the Priviledges Annext to them.

Forasmuch as the Right of the Election of the King of the Romans, is inseparably United to the Principalities of the Electors; and as the same Right cannot fall but to those who Posses those Principalities. We Decree by this perpetual Edist, that the Right of Election lection shall be always so United to the said Principalities, that whoever shall be in Possession of them, shall also enjoy the Right, Office, &c. of an Elector, any thing done heretofore to the contrary notwithstanding.

ion

ac-

WS.

Vp-

tor

he

nat

on

we

0-

a-

a-

of

u-le, nd

ut

ne

e-

e- .

i-

50

The Order for the Ranks of the Arch-Bishops.

Having already order'd the Precedence among the Ecclesiastical Electors in Council, at Table, &c. We now think fit to Prescribe the order to be observed in Processions, and other Publick Demarches.

Whenever the Emperor or King of the Romans, shall March out in State, the Arch-Bishop of Trier shall immediately go before the Emperor or the King of the Romans, no body Marching between them, but the Princes who bear the Imperial Ornaments; but when the Emperor or King Marches without the said Ornaments, then the same Arch-Bishop shall March directly before the Emperor or the King, no Person between them; and the other two Arch-Bishops shall in Procession, have the same place before Assigned them.

Of the March of the Secular Electors.

In all Processions and other Solemnities, where the Imperial or Royal Ornaments are Born, the Duke of Saxony bearing the Imperial Royal Sword shall immediately precede; the Emperor having on his Right Hand the CountPalatine bearing the Globe, and on his Lest, the Marquis of Brandenbourg bearing the Scepter, the King of Bohemia shall immediately follow the Emperor.

And the first Consecrated Arch-Bishop shall have the Precedency in pronouncing the Blessings at the end of every Solemin Mass.

The following Laws were Published in the Dyet of Metz, on Christmass-Day in the Year 1356, by Charles the 4th. Emperor, by the Electors present, Theodore Bishop of Alba Cardinal, and Charles Eldest Son of the King of Prance, Duke of Normandy, and Dauphin of Viennais.

If any Person shall Attempt or by Oath Promise and Engage in any Conspiracy against the Life of any of the Electors of the Empire; he shall be put to Death, and all his Goods and Estate Forseited, as in Cases of High Treason; for the Electors being part of our own Body, the Will shall be punished with the same Severity, as if the Fact had been Committed: The Son of the Traytor shall lose his Maternal Inheritance, and in all other Inheritances whatfoever, the Daughters shall have only the fourth part of their Maternal Estates. The Accomplices of the faid Traytors and their Sons, shall suffer the same Punishments, unless they discover the Treason or the beginning of the Conspiracy, and then they shall be Pardoned and Rewarded: But if the Traytor shall be dead before the Discovery, his Estate shall neverthelefs be Forfeited, and whoever is guilty of fuch Treason, from that very time, shall be uncapable to fell or Mortgage his Estate, to Free his Slaves or demand any Debts that are due to him. notion the Emper

The Preservation of the Principalities of the Electors.

We Ordain by this present Constitution, that the Principalities of Bohemia, the Palatinate, Saxony, and Brandenbourg with all their Dependencies, shall never be divided; but be preserved whole; and that the Eldest Sonshall Succeed to them, unless he is Non Compose mentis, and uncapable to Govern, for in such Cases the Second Son, shall Succeed him, or the next of Kin, by his Father's side.

The Imperial Court.

The Day being appointed on which the Emperor or the King of the Romans shall hold his Imperial Court, all the Electors shall be ready at the Imperial or Royal Palace, where the Emperor or the King in their Robes shall Ride on Horse-back with all the Electors to the place of the Court, every one after the Order and Manner above Prescribed, the Arch-Chancellor bearing at the top of his Silver Staff the Imperial or Royal Seals. The other Electors the Scepter, &c. as it is order'd before. Other Princes named by the Emperor shall March immediately before the Arch-Bishop of Triers, bearing the Crown of Aix la Chappelle and the Crown of Milan, which shall only be observed when the Emperor shall wear his Imperial Crown. The Empress also or the Queen of the Romans in their Robes shall go after the Emperor, the King of the Romans, and the King of Bohemia, attended by her Officers and Maids of Honour.

TC.

ifhop

lemn

yet of 1356,

Ele-

Caring of

phin

Dath

cy af the

his

es of

part

fhed

had

aytor

and

the

rt of lices

uffer

over

fpi-

and

lead

ver-

ilty

hall

ate,

that

The Offices of the Electors during the Session of the Imperial Court.

Every time the Emperor or the King of the Romans shall keep a Solemn Court, the Electors shall perform their Offices after the following manner.

The Emperor Sitting on his Throne, the Duke of Saxony being on Horse-back before the Gate of the Palace, a heap of Oats shall be prepared as high as the Horse's Breast; and the Duke having his Silver Staff and a Measure of Silver, both weighing Twelve Marks, he shall fill the Measure with Oats, and give it to the next; Groom of the Stables, then planting his Staff in the Oats, he retires, and the Vice Marshal or the Marshal of the Court approaching, they leave the Oats as Plunder to all that can take them.

The Emperor or the King of the Romans Sitting down, the Ecclesiastical Electors shall Bless the Table; then the Arch-Bishops, or one of them, bearing the Seals at the top of the Silver Staff, shall put them upon the Table, and the Arch-Bishop in whose Diocess the Court is held, shall take the broadest Seal and hang it about his Neck during Dinner time. The Staff and the Seal shall belong to the Chancellor of the Court to dispose of as he pleases.

Then the Marquis of Brandenbourg on Horse-back, having in his Hands a Silver Bason and Ewer with Water and a Napkin, shall pour out Water to wash the Emperor's Hands.

The Count Palatine on Horse-back, bringing in Four Silver Dishes of Meat shall set them on the Table.

n of

the

Ele-

ol-

ore

iall

lve

ith

ot

he

or

ey

ike

ans

all

or

ot a-

cess

eft in-

ng

of

on

Ba-

all

r's

he

After them, the King of Bohemia being on Horse-back, and bearing a Silver-Cup cover'd full of Wine and Water, shall Dismount, and kneeling down, Present it to the Emperor or to the King of the Romans.

Of the Imperial and Electoral Tables.

The Imperial or Royal Table shall be Six Foot Higher than any other Table in the Hall, and in Solemn Assemblies, no body shall Sit at them; but the Emperor or the King. The Table of the Empress or the Queen shall be on one side, and Three Foot lower than the Emperors; but yet Three Foot higher than that of the Electors: The Tables of the Electors shall be all equal of the same Height, and sit below the Emperor's Table; Three on the Right, Three on the Left side, and the Seventh over against the Emperors; but no Elector shall sit at his Table till they have all Performed their Offices, and then they all sit down at the same time.

According to the Ancient Customs, the Election shall be made at Francfort, the Coronation at Aix la Chappelle, and the first Court shall Assemble at Nuremberg.

If an Elector for weighty Reasons shall be absent, his Proxy or Deputy shall not sit at the Elector's Table.

We also Strictly Order, that the Successions of the Princes Electors at Seven Years of Age, shall learn the Latin, Italian and Sclavonian Tongues.

Form of Govern-

2

As to the Form of Government us'd in the Empire, it is neither Absolutely Monarchical nor Aristocratical, but a mean between them both, nor is the Emperor fo Circumscribed within certain Bounds, as it is in some Kingdoms of Europe; where their Princes cannot exercife any kind of Sovereignty, without the Consent of the Estates; for Germany acknowledges but one Supreme Head under the Title of Roman Emperor, which Dignity was first annexed to the German Empire by Otho or Otto. The Estates of Germany have great and powerful Countries in their Possession, have a considerable share of the Sovereignty over their own Subjects, and tho' they are Subjects of the Emperor and Empire themselves, yet must not be consider'd as meer Subjects, being actually posfessed of the Supreme Power in Criminal Affairs, to regulate the Affairs of Religion, to dispose of the Revenues arising out of their own Territories, to make Alliances among themfelves, and with Foreign Princes; (always provided they be not intended against the Emperor or Empire) they have also Power to build Fortresses, and maintain Armies of their own, to Coin Money, and do other things necessary to their own Welfare: Which Grandure of the Estates has always been a great Obstacle to those Emperors that have endeavour'd to render their Authority Absolute.

But

mi

TO

the he Ef

VO

or

pr

are on

Se

ön

tit

Fo Cl

th

tel

be

gr

be Po

th

Ef

hig

na

of

Pr

ra

R

Pr

W

ce

th

be

tii en ha in the archithem cribed Kingannot it the know-Title It an-Otto. owernsideot be poi-I Aton, to rown prompebuild own, effary e of stacle 'd to

Sc.

iccef-

ars of

clavo-

But

But that which principally keeps the Empe- The Emperor from Transgreffing his Bounds, is, because ror Eledthe Emperor is Elective, and as he is chofen; fo he may be depoted by the Electors and other Estates of the Empire: Who upon Emperors voluntary Abdication, by his taking Holy Orders, or in case of Tyranny or actual Incapacity, will proceed to the Choice of another, in which they are confin'd to these Rules. First, they Elect one of the Masculin, and not the Reminine Sex. Secondly, That he must be of the German Nation. Thirdly, Of competent Age, tho' fometimes they have made Infractions on this Rule. Qualificati-Fourthly, That he be of the Lairy, and not a ons. Clergyman. Fifthly, That he be a Papift; tho' there be as yet no known law to hinder a Protestant from being Emperor. Sixthly, that he be a just and good Man, of folid Piety, and great Prudence and Courage. Laftly, That he be of Illustrious Birth, at least a Baron; Rich, Powerful, and has fuch a confiderable share of the Goods of Fortune, that he can by his own Estate maintain the Imperial Dignity in its highest Grandure. But the Election and Coronation of the Emperor, declaration a great part of their Constitution in afferting the Rights and Priviledges of the People, and containing feveral Curiofities that will not be unpleasant to the Reader, that Affair being not till now ever Printed in English; I shall first entertain him with a Relation of that Ceremony, before I proceed to Matters of great Consequence. If the Electors and in the Person of him whom the precedent Emperor procur'd the Favour to be made King of the Romans during his Lifetime, all the Requisite Qualifications that may entitle him to receive the Imperial Dignity, or have Reason to hope from his Education, and former Demeanor, that in time he will acquire all the good Qualities he wants, they give him the Preference; but if his Conversation has been distasteful to the Publick, or discovers any Incapacity for the management of fo great a Truft, they lay him aside, and proceed to the Election of one that is better Accomplish'd. This Ele-Stion according to the Golden Bull, ought to be made at Francfort, but that has been often difpenc'd with upon divers intervening Accidents. As foon as the Electors have made their Choice by Majority of Voices, and while they are making preparation for the Emperor's Coronation an Ambassador is dispatch'd to Rome, to acquaint the Pope with their Proceedings, and obtain his Confirmation of the Election. These Letters being granted, they dispence with going into Italy, to take the two Growns of Rome and Milan, as regarding their fingle Election, and the Oaths usually taken by the Emperor at his Coronation, to be a plenary Investiture of all the Rights and Dignities of the Empire, and that all the rest were but Ceremonies to make the German Election more Solemn and Publick.

All which Presidents and Practices of the Empire, sufficiently justify their Claim to the Power of Deposing the Emperor, when the same Reason shall occur that gave Birth and Authority to their Proceedings against the forementi-on'd Emperors.

King of the Romans.

We shall in the next Place treat of the King of the Romans. In elder Times that Dignity was unknown in the Sense 'tis now receiv'd; for from the times of the first Emperors to that of Charlemain, the Emperors themselves were Kings of the Romans; that is to say, Sovereign Princes of the City of Rome, Kings of the Romans, and Emperors in the same Person; and therefore when Charlemain destin'd his Eldest Son to be his Successor in the Empire, that he might give him Honour, Hon his ( whi Deb amp Dig as C of t in t a C of E ing the hin ma ver Em WI Ele the de che pi ha ro an af a

the

ob

Torigh

ta

kc.

e him

s been

ny In-

Truft,

ection

Ele-

to be en dilents.

hoice

mak-

on,an uaint

n his

s beilan,

aths

tion,

and

rest

ecti-

the

the

ime

ho-

nti-

g of

un-

om

ar-

of

of

DE-

en

C-

m

r,

Honour, and not confound the Titles, or lessen his own Authority, he made him King of Italy, which quietly was enjoy'd by his Sons Louis the Debonair, and Lothair I. who following his Example, gave their presumptive Heirs the same Dignities, which in those times signified as much as Cafar under the first Emperors, and as King This last Quality began of the Romans now. in the Reign of Otho I. when the Princes out of a Capricio of Devotion, believing that the Title of Emperor was in the Gift of the Pope, and being unwilling to thwart him, would not give the Title of Emperor to his Son when he Crown'd him, but gave him the Title of King of the Romans, which he had Power to dispose of as Sovereign Prince of the City of Rome, and several Emperors in those Days contented themselves with this Title only, which by virtue of their Elections, invested them in the full Possession of the Empire and Imperial Dignity, till they could obtain the name of Emperor, when the Pope thought fit to Crown them.

But now the King of the Romans is taken un-What he is der another Acceptation, as one that is Ele- now. cted to that Dignity by the Princes of the Empire, during the Life of the Emperor, and who has the management of all Affairs in the Emperor's Absence, as Vicar-General of the Empire, and by virtue of that Election, succeeds Emperor after the Death of the former, except there be a necessity for another Election or Confirmation. This by some is look'd upon as an Artifice in Charles V. to make the Empire in a manner Hereditary without Noise or Trouble, and the Project has succeeded in the House of Austria, in first making themselves Kings of the Romans, and then they were fure of being Emperors in course, as in the Example of Maximilian I. Ferdinand I. Maximilian II. Rudolphus II. Ferdinand III. and the two last Emperors; for which Reason the Elector of Saxony and the Confederates of Smal-kald protested against this close Design of Charles V. and Methods were afterwards proposed to regulate that Affair; but at length this Matter was accommodated between Charles and the Electors, and other Princes, in the Year 1532. who it seems did not look deep enough into the Affair, nor saw what would be the Consequence of it.

His Authority, bow limited.

011

The King of the Romans being chosen by the Electors of the Empire, the Emperor is then invited to the Assembly by the Electors, to confirm the Election; which being done, the King of the Romans is Proclaim'd and Crown'd, not with the Imperial Crown, but an open Crown, which they call the Roman; nor do they take an Oath of Fidelity to him, till after the Death of the Emperor: They also give him the Title of August, but not that of Always August, which is referv'd to the Emperor: They also make a difference in their Arms, for the King of the Romans is only an Eagle display'd with one Head, but the Emperor's is an Eagle display'd with two Heads. He has no Authority while the Emperor is in the Empire, but when he is out of it, the King of the Romans, as the second chief and perpetual Vicar of the Empire, Governs all Affairs as if the Emperor was present, is treated with the Title of Royal Majesty, and has the fame Respect and Honours paid him as if he were Emperor; only with this difference, that the Marshal of the Court carries the Sword before him in the Scabbard, but before the Emperor Naked.

then this at one force of his of hoppy drails moods a salth of a salth of the complete of the company of the co

In

bers

ther

the !

when

was

deci

the mad ter

had

of

Ele

to

am

Eco

for lat

We

ed

Po

El

po

be

ba

fe

CO

Of

21

CC.

n the

mal-

arles

d to tter

532.

the nce

the

in-

on-ng

lot

n,

an

of

of

h

a

e

e

1

In Ancient times, when the Estates and Mem- The three bers of the Empire were oblig'd to confer toge- Colledges ther about their common Affairs, they all met in pire. the same Place, and form'd but one Assembly, where they receiv'd the Propositions the Emperor was pleased to make them, and deliberated and decided the Affairs before them. And as one of the most important Business of the Empire was the Election of an Emperor, so that choice was made by the Princes and People joyntly; but after the Death of Lothair the 2d. the Princes who had already excluded the People from their Right of Election, being met together at Coblentz, to The Rife of Elect the Successor, they resolv'd before all things, the Electo proceed in this Order. They named Seven tors. among themselves, Three Arch-bishops for the Ecclesiastical Estate, and Four Secular Princes for the Nobility, viz. one King, one Count Palatine, one Manquis, and one Duke, and they were of the most considerable Persons that carried those Titles. These confiding in their own Power, invested themselves with Authority to Elect the Emperor, agreeing that if their Report was agreeable to the Assembly, he should be Proclaimed Emperor. On this manner, Conhade the Third, and Frederick the First, were chofen Emperors, tho' both these Elections were contested, one by Henry the Proud Duke of Saxony, and the other by Henry the Lyon, his Son and Successor, as Facts contrary to Law, and the Ancient Customs of the Empire.

These New Electors continued the same man- How they n-r of Election, during Seventy sive Years, un-began. der the Reigns of Henry VI. Philip of Suabia, Otho and Frederick II. and then making this long Possession a kind of Right, gave themselves the Title of Electors, during the Interregnum which followed the Death of Frederick II. They Authoriz'd themselves the more easily, as being the most considerable and most powerful Princes in the Empire, and making themselves Arbitrators of the Government, named Rodolphus I. and the Emperors following, without any Contests among the Estates, tho it was an invasion upon the Ancient Custom. At length the Emperor Charles IV. turn'd this Practice into a Fundamental Law of the Empire, and publish'd it in the Golden Bull.

D<sub>3</sub> thoriz'

How they perate.

The Electors having thus began fince the came to Se- Reign of Frederick II. to Assemble separately for Elections, pretended also the Rights of holding their Conferences apart for the other Affairs of the Empire, without regard to the Protestations that the Princes and the Imperial Cities made against this Separation. This made the Princes and the Imperial Cities take up a Refolution also of Assembling in separate Bodies, to make their Deliberations; and these three Bodies of the Electors, the Princes and the Imperial Cities, form'd also different Classes, which they call'd Colleges, which Distinction was receiv'd and establish'd in the Diet held at Francfort, in the Year 1580.

The Eletto-

The Electors have two Characters in one and ral College, the same Person, one which is common with other Princes of the Empire, and the other is particular to themselves. By the first they are Sovereign in their own Dominions, ond in that Quality their Subjects owe them Homage and Oaths of Fidelity; they have the Right of the Sword in punishing Criminals, and in making They have the Right of making Laws, establishing Tribunals in their Estates, and regulating Justice and Policy: Of Coining Mony, imposing Taxes, and making Confederacies and Alliances with the other Princes of the Empire, and Foreigners, for their particular Interests;

Of for Arfen er to to Lie or Pr They and o Mine fures Amba grant profe minic

T Mole they As fo value ny t cann ties, ges, to W conf The own dire dice Swo oth Efta or or . Arı or " his

> pir Co

the

C.

the

es in tors

the

pon

TOT

dat in

the

ing

of ti-

ies

he fo-

es,

ee

10-ch

e-

C-

d

)-

.

-

t

Of fortifying Places, levying Troops, making Arfenals, and casting Cannon. They have Power to grant Pardons, Reinission, and Absolution; to License Fairs, and Markets, and to Permit or Prohibit Hunting, Setting, Fowling, Fishing: They have Power to Disinherit for Bastardize and otherwise. They raise Tenths upon the Mines and Salts, and have their share in Treasures when discover'd. They send and receive Ambassadors; they contract Marriages and grant Dispensations for Marriages, to those who profess the Protestant Religion within their Dominions.

These Rights they enjoy without Dispute or Their Per Molestation; but there are many things in which strictions. they cannot exercise an Absolute Authority: As for Example; They cannot give any other value to Mony, nor make any other kind of Mony than what is allowed by the Empire: They cannot augment their own particular Authorities, nor lay Tolls nor Customs upon their Bridges, Rivers, or Passages, through their Estates, to which Strangers are subject, without the consent of his Imperial Majesty in full Dyet, They cannot under pretence of fecuring their own Estates, enter into any Confederacy that directly or confequently may tend to the Prejudice of the Empire, and the Fidelity they have Sworn to it: As for Example, If any Elector or other Prince, shall for the Preservation of his own Estates, engage with Foreign Princes in a League or Neutrality, and in Pursuance of that League or Neutrality, shall think himself obliged to Arm in Defence of this Treaty; that Elector or other Prince shall be restrain'd by virtue of his Oath of Fidelity to the Emperor and the Empire, and if after warning given him, he grows Contumacious, he is to be proceeded against at the Discretion of the Emperor and his great Conneil

Council of the Effaces of the Empire safer though fuch offending Princes are Sovereigns in their own Territories, yet they are Subjects to the Emperor and the Empire, and must prefer their Duty before their particular Safeties: for their Loffes may and ought to be repairedy but the Deftruction of the Empire cannot. shwindso bus Ecclefizitical Electors.

The Three Electoral Archbishops, Bishops and Abbots, were fome Time invelted and confirmed by the Emperor, by the Delivery of a Ring and a Verges but Pope Gregory VII. having folminated against this fort of Investiture as Symoniacal, the Emperors have fince contented themselves with the Homage of these Prelates for their Temporals, belonging to the Empire, and on this Foot the Ecclefiaftical Electors give their Suffrages at the Election of an Emperor, the' they have not received their Palls from the Pope subecanfe the Electoral Dignity is Secular, land appentains to the Principality, and not their Ecclefiaftities, nor lay Tolls nor Commission Lesbillo las lectors.

Secular E- The Secular Electors Succeed lin the Electoral Dignity, and for their Electorals from Hather to Son ad infinitum, continuing always in the oldest Male Branch in a Lineal Succession, and never falls from it to the Cadets or other Relations, till the intire Extinction of the eldeft of the Family

Of the prefent Electorates and Electors.

The Reader will not be displeased at this Time of a Vacancy in the Imperial Dignity to fee fomething concerning the Electoral, which is the next to it in the Roman Empire; and having treated of its Rife and Progress in general, we shall now come to the particular Electorates and Electors, with the Powers and Privileges of each, as well as its Origin and Establishment, and must begin with the Ecclefiaftical. For fince the Popes usurp the Sovereignty of Rome, once the Seat of the Empire of the World, the Spiritual Dominion always assumes Precedence.

The

A

Th

first o

of the

Colle

lation

Gham

as nat

him a politic

him t

their !

City o

City,

about

of it.

rate.

noble

leaft.

at ho

bishop

the G

ther t his Co

or Th Antiq

Leige,

has no

Hands

This 1

City,

been o

Electo

Affem

ticular

Power

all the fall to have n OWn /

whom dyugh

heir

the

their

De-

bas

hops

of A

Ving

Sy-

for

and

heir

they ube-

Perit

adti-

ties,

oral

ot v

ldeft

falls

the

dire

this

o fee

sithe

ving, we

and

each.

mult

opes

at of 001

The

The Archbishop and Elector of Mentz is the Electorate first of the Ecclesiastical Electors, High Chancellor and Elector of the Empire, perpetual Dean of the Electoral of Mentz. College, Guardian of the Archives and Matriculation, Visitor of the Council of Vienna, the Chamber of Spire, and all the Posts of the Empire, as natural Arbitrator of all Publick Affairs. To him all foreign Princes and States address the Propolitions they have to make to the Empire, and to him the Princes and States of the Empire make their Complaints for Redress of Grievances. The City of Mentz was formerly a Free and Imperial City, but having for its Bishop a Prince of Nessau about 400 Years ago, he made himself Sovereign of it, and was afterwards erected into an Electorate. All the Canons of the Chapter must be of noble Birth, or Gentlemen of four Descents at least. The Revenues of this Elector are valued at 700000 Crowns a Year. The present Archbishop and Elector is Anselm Francis Frederick, and the Grand Mafter of the Teutonick Order, Brother to the Elector Palatine, was lately elected his Coadjutor.

This Archbishoprick pretends to the greatest Electorate Antiquity of any in Germany, for Mentz, Cologn, and Elector Leige, &c. were formerly Suffragans to it. It of Tryer. has now Three Suffragans only, and all in the Hands of the French, Metz, Toul, and Verdun. This was in ancient Times a Free and Imperial City, but had the same Fate with Mentz, to have been deprived of its Liberty by its Bishop. Elector has the first Voice in Elections, and in all Affemblies General and Electoral. He has a particular Seat over against the Emperor. He has Power to reunite to the Demesns of his Church all the Fiefs situate in his Diocess, and those that fall to it for want of Heirs Male, if the Heirs have no Privilege to the contrary. He can by his own Authority put those to the Imperial Ban whom he has excommunicated, if they don't reconcile

Who

of the

Honse

now in atin, 0

n the E

Empero

he other

ia as V

xercife

vants a ower !

Marri

It tal

concile themselves to the Church in a Year afterwards; and this Ban has the same Force as if it had been pronounced by the States of the Empire. He is Guardian of the Miners of the Empire, and his Revenues are as great in Times of Peace as his of Mentz. The present Archbishop and Elector is John Hugo d' Orsbec, he was chosen in 1676, but his Dominious lye so near the French, that he has feldom been entirely Master even of his Capital; however he is not in that Interest. The Bishop of Osnabrug was in April 1710 chosen his Coadjutor.

The Elec-

This for Revenue is the most considerable Elector of the 11th Century. The A. B. is Chancellor of tim, yet Cologn. the Empire for Italy, but the Office is now, by pove all his Rebellion, vested in the Chapter. He is appointed by the Bull to anoint and crown the K. ower dof the Roms, but other Bps claim that Privilege ving In of Geremony he performed in their Dioceses. His pries, of Chapter of 60 consists of Princes and Counts, not at being a Baron is admitted. The City is Free and Imperial, and only pays Homage to the Bishops. Tis e Electrical, and only pays Homage to the Bishops. Tis e Electrical, and only pays Homage to the Bishops. The Electrical in Memory what a Struggle there was to the fold get the Prince of Bavaria, Clement Foseph, chosen hich it Elector, against the Competition of Prince Willisore, the am of Furstemberg, who was supported by France, efore the as Prince Clement was by the Allies, tho' he have fed of I ungratefully deserted them, and entered into aclongs to Confederacy with the French King, which makes datin dithin a Rebel to the Empire, and loses his Vote in lentz, to the Electoral College.

Thu is first Secular Elector of sbe Empire.

The King of Bohemia is the first Secular Elector punt Pa of the Empire, and gives his Suffrage next afters, and the Elector of Cologn, but has neither Seat oring also Voice among the Electors; but at the Election of the Emperor Otho IV. in the Year 1208 admitted the Electors. the King of Bohemia to the Privilege of being ant Reli Prince, Elector of the Empire, who was further puntry a confirmed in that Dignity by the Golden Bull of When Charles IV.

ter-

if it

pire. and

ce as Ele-

n in encb.

en of

When

When the Kingdom of Bohemia became part of the Dominions of the House of Austria, that Honse was invested with this Electorate, which is now in Possession of Charles III. King of Spain, Oc.

It takes its Name from the Office of Count Par Electorate atin, or Palferave, who is to administer Justice Palasine, n the Empire, sometimes by Authority from the Emperor, and also with the Duke of Saxony on he other side the Rhine, and the Elector of Bavaerest. is as Vicars-Generals of the Empire, who are to rable ower invested in this Family, and inclines me fince of think, that tho' other Electors take place of im, yet the Electors of the Rhine and Saxony are to be were during the Vacancy of the Throne, except wilege wing Investitute to those that hold great Terrisis. His pries, or Lordships in Fee of the Empire, with the pries of the Empire, with the pries, or Lordships in Fee of the Empire, with the pries, or Lordships in Fee of the Empire, with the pries, or Lordships in Fee of the Empire, with the pries, or Lordships in Fee of the Empire, with the pries, or Lordships in Fee of the Empire, with the pries, or Lordships in Fee of the Empire, with the pries, or Lordships in Fee of the Empire, with the pries of the Empire of the Empi Impeinistrations; and which is most considerable,
'Tis e Elector Palatin can redeem what the Emperor was to the fold or mortgaged, at the same Value for chosen hich it was sold or engaged; and which is yet ore, the Emperor may be convened for Debt France, efore this Elector. But if the Emperor be ache has fed of Male-Administration, then the Judgment into a longs to the Electoral College, but the Electors makes latin direct the Process, and not the Elector of ote in lentz, tho' he be Dean of the Electoral College: Marriages, Fiefs, and Imperial Gifts, the Elector punt Palatin came to have very large Dominiet afteres, and quietly enjoyed them for several Ages, Seat oring also the first Secular Elector of the Empire, ction of the there is no King of Bohemia to vote as such, limited the Elector Frederick III. espousing the Prote-being ant Religion in the Year 1576, and making his further puntry a Retreat for the Protestants; as also Bull of the the taking the Crown of Bohemia into that Family by Frederick began a War, which continuing above Prince 30 Years, much wasted his Estates, and deprive Birth I that Elector of all his Lands and Dignities in the f the Empire, which were given to the Duke of Bayas hat V ria, and only an Allowance or Pension out of it well k Charles the lawful Successor, at the Peace of Praguelace. but at length, by the Peace at Munster and Osna Thoburg in 1648 the lower Palatinate and Bergstra wes it were restored to him, and at the same time his ab was constituted the Eighth Elector, and chief Tree is Stat Jurer of the Empire. The Elector of Bavaria wit lectors the Dominions had the Precedence claimed be hom is this Electorate, but being now for his Rebellio I. Kin under the Ban of the Empire, the Elector Palais c is the was restored both to his Precedence and Domin at the Origin of the Elector, this House has to the Origin of the Elector, this House has Produced many Emperors, the chief Branch being your of extinct in the Male Line of Frederick V. Kinge Wood Bohemia and Elector Palatin, the Electorate to g Dispeto the second Branch, the House of Newburg, Shness whom is the present Elector John William Tales they of whom is the present Elector John William Jose my of The Duke of Saxony has the fixth place amount, that the Electors. Charlemain at several times warm pire. against these Saxons Thirty Years before he could be have subdue them, and afterward made Wittiking sans elected back of Saxony upon his embracing the Christian in his Faith, from whom are descended all the Kings Empire Faith, from whom are descended all the Kings Empire France since Hugh Capet: also the Kings of Descent for mark of the House of Oldenburg, the Dukes of Best not gundy and Savoy, the Marquesses of Montserat, at the Empire many other noble Families of tesser Quality; at cannot the Dukedom is still in the same Family, notwit re is a King standing an Interruption of 200 Years, from 11 Interregation 1423. Augustus King of Poland, the prosession as soon at the Fourteenth since the Restitution of the Line fore the the richest as well as the most ancient of all Electoral Prince Elector P

A

amil A View of the State of the Empire, &c.

aboverinces of the Electoral College; by Right of prive Birth he is High-Marshal, or Master of the Horse in the f the Empire. His abjuring his Religion, and Bava that Variety of Fortune he has met with, is so of it twell known, we shall not enlarge on it in this

Tho' this House is of great Antiquity, yet it Elector of wes its Grandeur to the Emperor Sigismund, Brandenime h ho about the Year 1415, with the Consent of burg. of Tree to States, gave the perpetual investiture of this is wit lectorate to Frederick II. of Nuremberg, from med behom is descended the present Elector Frederick

Palei c is the most powerful Prince in the Empire, Domin xt the House of Austria, and is an Elector of e Empire.

This Electorate being erected in our Times in Elector of the being our of Ernestus, Father of the present Elector Hanover.

V. Ki orge William Elector of Hanover, and after a g Dispute entirely settled, but so lately, as his shower, taking on him the Command of the my of the Empire, we shall only observe surer, that as Elector he is Arch-Treasurer of the he cou We have shewed already that the King of the striking sans elected during the Life of the Emperor, Christian in his Absence perpetual Vicar-General of Christian in his Absence perpetual Vicar-General of Kings Empire, and as his Quality of Vicar-General So of D les not but by his Elevation to the Imperial Inity, which immediately follows the Death Inity, which immediately follows the Death Inity, which immediately follows the Death Inity, and cannot exercise their Functions when I cannot exercise their Functions when in terregnum; but when there is no King of Interregnum; but when there is no King of Romans elected, they may exercise their Offinal Indus, a foon as the Emperor is deceased.

The Lie of the Elector of Bavaria was invested with Electoral Dignity, that anciently belonged to Prince Palatine, and the Duke is one of the fan

Dake of Saxony, were the two fole Vicars of the Empire; but fince the Treaty of Munfter, where in it was Decreed, That the Electoral Dignity that the Princes Palatine had formerly poffess'd with all the Rights, Regalities, Offices, preceden cies, Ornaments, Arms, and Rights what fover (hould continue to the Lord Maximilian, Count Pa latine Duke of Bavaria, and his Children the E lector of Bavaria pretends that this Vicariate be longs to him exclusive of the Prince Palatine and that the Terms of the Treaty had decide the Question in his Favour. the Elector Pala tine on the contrary has always maintain'd, tha the Vicariate was not annext to the Elector Dignity, but to the Count Palatine of the Rhim agreeable to the Ancient Custom and the Goldin Bull, which expresly faith, That the Count Pall tine of the Rhine is Vicar of the Empire, in regal of his Principality, or by virtue of the Priviled which particularly affects the Palatinate, and the it cannot pass into another Family. However t Duke of Bavaria, after the the Death of Fo dinand the the Third, In 1657. being affifted other Electors, carried it against the El. Palatin in wha The Powers of these Vicars, are to name Pe ftribut fons to Benefices, have the Rights of the & throws galia, call'd Jus Primarium precum, to recei Ple at t the Revenues of the Demeans of the Empiror the I and dispose of it to the Publick Advantage; and in fhort, to do all the Emperorhimself could do Per fon.

The Secular Electors have every one a Via greatest to assist them in the discharge of the great Of that Electors ces of the Imperial Crown, which are annext Princes Officers of the Empire, and exercise all the Polence, or ers of the Princes they represent in their a Throne, a sence, exclusive of their Ambassadors. The Princes, King of Bohemia's Vicar is the Baron of Limba Lives the The Elector of Bavaria's is one of the Familia be he

of V Papi Hoe zena mad and W on o difch ed in their of Fr and d Servi Electo with Electo ror in they w rer of latin, has b phalia, mong a ing to t

Here

of Waltburg; The Elector of Saxony's is Coun-Papenheim; the Elector of Brandenburg's is Count Hoenzollern; the Elector Palatin's is Count Sinzendorf; But there has been some Alterations made that we cannot account for at this time; and the Elector of Hannover's is Count-

When the Electors are in Person at the Electi- Honours on of an Emperor, or at other Solemnities, they paid the discharge their Offices themselves, as it is direct- Bishop of Bamberg. ed in the 27th Chapter of the Golden Bull, and their Vicars only attend at the Gates of the City of Francfort, to affit their Electors in mounting and dismounting their Horses, for which little Service, they are rewarded with the Horse the Elector rides on, and the Plate which he is ferv'd with in the exercise of his Office; but when the Electors are absent, the Vicars serve the Emperor in the Offices that the Electors should do if they were Present. The Office of High-Treasurer of the Empire conferr'd upon the Elector Palatin, but now in the Elector of Hannover, has been settled since the Treaty of Westphalia, and therefore it will not be amiss to shew in what it consists; which principally is in distributing Medals by the way of Larges, and throws pieces of Gold and Silver among the People at the end of the Coronation of the Emperor, or the King of the Romans.

Here we must not forget to declare, that a of an Inmong all the Offices of the Vicars, that belong-terregnum ing to the High Marshal of the Empire, has the or Vacancy. e a Vic greatest Employment; for in the Absence of reat Of that Elector, he has the care of Lodging the annext Princes and other Estates of the Empire, of inleredita troducing the Emperor into the Hall of Audi-l the Potence, or the Assembly. He also prepares the their a Throne, and ranges the Seats of the Electors, the princes, and the Deputies of the Cities. He flimbs gives them notice at what Hour the Assembly he Fam will be held, calls them one after another; takes

their

quity es'd eden fover nt Pa the E

Ci

f the

here

te be latin ecida Pala d, tha ectors

Rhim Golde t Pal rega iviled and th ever t of Fo Tifted | Palatin me Pe the R recei

Empir age; at uld do their Suffrages in the Assembly, counts their Voices; sets the Guards at the City Gates where the Election is made, at the Chambers where the Electors are Lodged, and at the Assembly, and keeps the Keys of the Doors when they are shut, with several other Offices, too tedious to be rehearsed.

To the Office of the first four Electors are and nexed Honours, that methinks should make the receivers blush to think on, as well as make Strangers admire to hear of, and these are, That the greatest Princes in the Empire, are Hereditary Officers to the Bishop of Bamberg. The King of Bohemia is his great Cup-bearer, and the Lord of Auffus is his Vicar. The Duke of Bavaria is his great Master, and his Vicar is the Lord of Truchfes. The Duke of Saxony, the now King of Poland, is his Grand Marshal, and the Duke of Brandenburg, now King of Pruffia, i his High Chamberlain, and all of them pay Homage to the Bishop of Bamberg. The Duke of Bavaria being under the Ban of Empire, has no more right to any Electoral Privileges than an Out-law to an Estate. The Elector of Brunswick being a new Creation, we can't tell how he is Honour'd in the Bishop of Bamberg's Service.

Manner of chusing an Emperor.

Now, as we have said, that the great Prerogative that the Electors have above the relief of the Princes, is, that they have the Power to elect the Emperor; let us see after what Methods they proceed. As soon as the Elector of Mentz has received advice of the Vacancy of the Throne, he is obliged as High-Chancellor of the Empire, and Dean of the Electoral College, to give notice of it to his Colleagues, that in Month they may appear at Francfort to elect the mew Emperor. When the Electors of their Ambassadors are arrived at Francfort, they ough not to enter, according to the Golden Bull, with to fide an As Stra ring enti of t blig priv to w be I Plac plen The and who lome ctors Colog Saxon Bran to th fame those on th Brand he of

abo

Panpe The stor, S Golden when

the Pi

As f

Earls.

ter al

abov

their

here

e the

, and

fhut,

e re-

e an-

e the

make

That

eredi-

The

nd the

of Ba-

is the e now

nd the [ia, 1

Hom-

ike of

has no

han an

in wick

v he is

Prero-

ie rel

wer to

at Me

ctor o

of the

of the

ege, to

at in elect

ar Am

v ough

A, wit abov

ice.

W

above 200 Horse, and of those, not above Fifty to be Arm'd; but these orders are quite laid afide, and there is not an Elector that comes to an Election, with less than Five Hundred Horse. As foon as they are Assembled, they admit no Stranger or suspected Persons into the City during the Election, and put out those that had entred before they came. They take the Oaths of the Magistrates and the City Militia, and oblige the People under the Penalty of being deprived of their Privileges, and put to the Ban, to watch for their Security, that they may not be Infulted. The next Day, they meet in the Place appointed for the Election, only to Complement one another upon their fafe Arrival. Then they take Horse in their Electoral Habits. and passing through the midst of the Citizens who are in their Arms, proceed to St. Bartholomen's Church, two and two; first, the Electors of Mentz and Tryers; secondly, those of Cologn and Bohemia; then those of Bavaria, Saxony, and Hanover; and the last are those of Brandenburg and the Palatine. When they come to the Church, they Dismount, enrer in the fame Order, and take their Places in the Choir; those of Mentz, Robemia, Saxony, and Hanover, on the Right; and those of Cologn, Bavaria, Brandenburg, and the Palatine, on the Left; and he of Tryers alone in the middle of the Place. As foon as they are plac'd, fome Princes, Earls, and the Counsellors of the Electors, enter also; and then the Door is shut by the Count Panpenheim, who keeps the Keys.

They begin Prayers with the Hymn Veni Cre- The Manstor, Spiritus, according as 'tis prescrib'd by the ner of E-Golden Bull: Then they fay the Mass following; when they begin with Per omnia facula faculorum, the Protestant Princes or their Ambassadors retire, and don't return till Mass is ended. Then they approach the Altar, to take the Oath following. The Elector of Meniz takes it first; the Book being held, the Elector of Cologn; and Mentz turning his Face to the People, reads the Oath with a loud Voice; then takes the Book from the Elector of Cologn, administers the same Oath to the rest of the Electors. In taking the Oath, the Ecclesiasticks lay their Hands upon their Breasts, and the Secular Princes upon the Evangelists. The Oath is, That without regard, Solicitations, Promises or Rewards, they will chuse such a Person to be Emperor, as they think in their Conseiences is fit to govern the World; Supposing always that he is endowed with the requisite Qualifications, viz. That he is a Christian Prince, of the German Nation or Extraction, not less than 28 Years of Age, and capable to fustain the Character of Imperial Majesty. According to the Golden Bull, they ought to conclude the Oath with these Words, So God and all his Saints help help me; but in respect to the Protestants, they have chang'd them, So help me God and the Holy Evangelists.

tire,

From hence the Electors pass into the Conclave; which is a kind of Vaulted Gallery, joining to the Quire of the Church, and appointed for the Election. Having taken their Places, Count Papenheim, or his Vicar, locks the Door, and lays the Keys in a Place where the Electors may be Masters of them when they please. Now they begin their Deliberations, and because the Golden Bull gives them but a Months time to make their Choice, under the Pain of being reduced to Bread and Water, without any other Nourishment, for as long as they shall exceed that time, they have found a way, if there be occasion, to prolong their Sessions, without derogating

gati

ftin;

thei

they

that mat

oug

his .

ard

whi

nist

of 7

the

Elec

Pal

Mei

Voi

Wr

the

Pri

acci

frag

to

not giv

and

An

gre

to

Re

Sea

Em

pir

Ti

tha

do

gating from the Golden Bull, and that is by distinguishing between their Deliberations and their Resolutions; and so gain as much time as they please, to order the Affairs of the Empire that come before them.

One of the Principal things that requires their The Capimature Deliberations, is the Capitulation, which tulation. ought to be Signed by the future Emperor at his Election, which is to be the Rule and Standard of his Government during his whole Reign, which proved to be foduring the whole Administration. When the Electors come to Oping, he of Tryers is the first that gives his Suffrage; then the Elector of Cologn, the King of Bohemia, the Elector of Bavaria, Saxony, Brandenburg, the Palatine, Hanover, and last of all the Elector of Mentz, who decides the Election by Majority of Voices. No Elector can fend his Suffrage in Writing, but his Plenipotentiary must do it in the Assembly; tho' he may say thus, If that Prince to whom I have given my Voice, will not accept the Imperial Dignity, I will give my Suffrage to another. Every Elector has the Liberty to give his Voice for his Son or his Brother, but not for himself; but after his Colleagues have given theirs, he is free to fortify it by his own, and to conclude the Election in his own Favour. And when the Election is lawfully made by the greatest part of the Electors, they pass it into an Act, which being Sign'd by the Electors, Register'd, and converted into Letters Patents, Seal'd with the Seals of every Elector, it is the Emperor's Title to the Government of the Empire.

Then the Electors appoint the Manner and The Time Time for his being Proclaim'd, but if the Prince and Place that is Elected be absent, they send Ambassa-ronation.

dors to him, to acquaint him with with his being

Elected, E 2

J. ode.

h folfirst : and is the Book fame

Then

g the upon n the gard,

chuse their oling

uilite ince, t less

stain ng to

Oath help they

Holy lave;

ig to r the Pa-

lays y be they Gol-

nake uced

lou-

that cca-

eroting A View of the State of the Empire, &c.

Elected, and upon what Conditions he is Chofen, praying him to accept it, or rather come and take Possession of the Imperial Crown. This happen'd upon the Election of Charles V. who was then in Spain. But if the new Elected Emperor be in the Assembly, the Electors go with him from the Conclude to the Church, where, after Prayers, the Archbishop of Mentz causes him to Sign the Capitulation of the Altar, with a promife to confirm to the Electors all the Rights, Privileges and Prehemihences they enjoy, as foon as he is Crown'd, and enters upon the Government of the Empire. From the Altar they conduct him to a Tribunal in the Chair, where being fate, the Elector of Mentz orders the Great Dean, or fome other Canon of the Chipter of Mentz, to publish his Election; which being ended with Shouts of Joy, and the Noise of Trumpets and Timbals, they retire, and the Electors conduct the Emperor to his Palace.

The Electors pretend to the Right of appointing Time and Place for the Emperor's Coronation, and for giving all the necessary Orders to this purpose. Aix la Chappelle was anciently the Place, in Memory of Charles the Great, who had a Kindness for it, and made it the Place of his Residence; but of late that Ceremony has been perform'd, for ceatain Reasons, at other Places; and Leopold I. Emperor, was Crown'd at Francfort, by the Arbhbishop of Cologn and the two other Electoral Ecclesiasticks, in 1658.

We shall in the next Place treat of the King of the Romans and the Electors. When the Electors are agreed upon the time and place of the Coronation, and the Elector of Mentz hath given notice to the Magistrates of Aix and Nurembug, to bring or send by their Deputies all the Imperial Ornaments that are in their Custody,

ftod

Cren

Ring

Swan

mail

The

amo

phen

Wit

ten

the

lem

the

bas

cal

tha

the

tho

Im

ors

COL

Ch

Glo

cat

Pa

the

ca

Of

fha

to

th

CI

Ve

th

D

re

u

ot

A View of the State of the Empire, &c.

stody, viz. Those of Nuremburg, Charlemain's Crown of Gold, weighing fourteen Pounds, the Ring, the Scepter, the Globe, the Shoes, and the Sword, which they fay an Angel gave to Charlemain, a long Albe, a Stole, a Cope with a Girdle. Those of Aix la Chapelle, a Cup cover'd with Diamonds, wherein was kept a little of St. Srephen's Blood, the common Sword of Charlemain, with his Belt and Book, and the Evangelists written in Letters of Gold. Then having hang'd the great Church with Tapeftry, where the Solemnity is to be perform'd, and made Seats for the Emperor, the Electors, the Princes, the Ambassadors and other Assistants; the Ecclesiastical Electors, with the Bishops and other Prelates that are to Officiate, come in the Morning to the Church, where the Deputies of Aix and those of Nuremburg deliver into their Hands the Imperial Ornaments. Then the Secular Electors, or their Ambassadors in their Robes, accompany the Emperor from his Palace to the Church; the Elector of Bavaria carrying the Globe, on his Right the Elector of Brandenburg carrying the Scepter, and on his left the Elector Palatin carrying the Crown: Immediately before the Emperor, went the Elector of Saxony alone, carrying the Imperial Sword naked, where he Officiates in Person, and his Hereditaly Marshal carries the Scabbard; and when this Elector is not upon the Place, his Marshal carries the Sword before him in the Scabbard.

A Moment before the Emperor comes to the Church, the Ecclesiastical Electors go out of the Vestry, and walk before him in Procession with the Bishops, Abbots, and Chaplains, to the Church Door; The Elector, who is to perform the Ceremony in his Pontifical Habits, with a Mitre upon his Head, and a Cross in his Hand, and the other Electors in their Habits. As soon as they perceive

E 3

the gimall

Cho-

ome

This

who

cted

's go

rch ,

entz

the

lec-

emi-

nd,

bire.

unal

r of

ther

his

im-

the

int-

na-

lers

nt-

at,

ace

has her

n'd

the

ng

Ely,

Holy

the F

Anf.

the I

Oath

Perfo

the F

Truly

his I

the (

Dem

Prin

fulte

mill,

ed,

fays

eft I

Peop

Arc

and

Pax

pero

And

twe

the

Har

in t

the

Ro

he i

Gre

Ar

fay:

fing

mbo

Sec

the

his

perceive the Emperor, the Elector that Officiates begins to Sing, Adjutorium nostrum in Nomine Domini, Our help is in the Name of the Lord, and after says the Prayer, Omipotens sempiterne Deus, Almighty and Everlasting God, &c. After this he turns himself and goes to the Alter, and the two other Ecclesiastical Electors, putting the Emperor between them, Conduct him to his Pew before the Altar, where being on his Knees, the Electors also take their Places, leaving the Imperial Ornaments under the Guard of their Hereditary Officers.

The Ceremony begins with the Prayer, Domine, Salvum fac Regem, O Lord! Save the King, and is follow'd by the Ordinary Prayers, which being ended, the Mass of the Epiphany is Celebrated. Then they Conduct the Emperor to the Altar, and he Kneeling upon the uppermost Step, the Chaplains Sing the Litany to this Verse, Ut nos exaudire digneris; which being over, they continue the particular Prayers for the Emperor, to which the Choir make their Re-Sponsals: That being finish'd, the Emperor stands up, and the Officiating Elector with a Mitre on his Head, and a Cross in his Hand, makes these Six Demands to the Emperor. Will you continue in the Holy Faith which is taught by the Catholicks, and confirm it by good Works? To which the Emperor Answers, Tes, I will. 2. Will you be a Faithful Guardian and Protector of the Holy Church and its Servants? The Emperor Answers, 3. Will you govern the Empire Justly that God has given you? Anf. I will. 4. Will you pre-Serve the Empire in its Just Rights, Recover its Estates, and Faithfully employ them to the benefit of the Publick? Ans. I will. 5. Will you Judge Equitably between the Poor and the Rich: Faithtully defend the Widows and Orphans? Anf. I will. 6. Will you submit and Adhere to the most Holy ffici-No-Lord, terne after and ting his nees, the heir Doling, hich elethe nost this eing tor Rends itre akes conthonich you Toly ers, hat preits efit dee

th-

...1

rost

toly

Holy Father in Christ, the Pope of Rome, and to the Holy Catholick Apostolick and Roman Church: Anf. I will. Then the Emperor approaches to the Altar, and Comfirms his Answers by this Oath following, which he reads in Latin: I will Perform all that has been propos'd to me, God and the Faithful assisting me, and will Faithfully and Truly Accomplish what I have promised, God and his Holy Gospel being my Helper. That done; the Officiating Bishop turns to the Assistants and Demands of them in Latin. Will you accept this Prince to be your Emperor, and will you be Faithful to him? To which they Answer Thrice: We will, we will, we will: These Words being uttered, the Emperor Kneels while the Arch-Bishop fays this Prayer. Lord who at all times governest Kingdoms, Bless our King N. and make these People Obedient and Faithful to him. Then the Arch-Bishop's Suffragans undress the Emperor, and the Arch-Bishop takes the Holy Oil, saying, Pax tecum, Peace be with you, to which the Emperor Answers, Et cum Spiritu tuo, and then Anoint and Cross the Crown of his Head, between his Shoulders, on the Neck, the Breaft, the Wrist of the Right Arm, and last his Right Hand; at every Unction repeating the Prayer in the Ritual appointed on this Occasion. Then the Emperor is invested with the Imperial Robes, the Sandals and Buskins; afterwards he is Girt with a Sword and Belt of Charles the Great, and at giving it into his Hands, the Arch-Bishop gives him his Benediction, and then fays, Take this Sword, and by virtue of this Pleffing employ it in the Defence of God's Church, from whose Goodness you have received it. Then the Secular Electors put the Ring upon his Finger, the Globe into his Left Hand, the Scepter into his Right Hand, and the Ecclesiastical Electors fet set the Grown upon his Head. Mass being ended, they place the Emperor upon a Throne, where a Chair being set instead of that of Charlemain, which is still kept at dix, the Ecclesiastical Electors pronounce these Words; Take and keep Possession of this Place, which was reserved for you, not by any Hereditary Right, nor that of Paternal Succession, but only by the Suffrages of the German Electors, the Providence of Almighty God, and our Succession: And the Emperor and the Electors return in the same State to his Palace. But to give a more particular Idea of this great Geremony, we shall describe the Coronation of the Emperor Leopoldus at Frankfort, A. D. 1658.

All Strangers of what Quality or Condition foever, had Intimation given them three days before to get out of the City upon that day, except they belong'd to any of the Electors, or their Ministers, or were to discharge any Office in that Ceremony: Which Order being obeyed by the Spanish and French Ambassadors, as likewife by his Holiness's Nuntio, and the rest, the City Gates were thut up, and the Burghers in Arms were distributed in several places of the At the appointed hour the Electors being come into the Vestry to cloath themselves in the respective Habits of their Dignity, repaired to the Cathedral Church on Honfeback, after a very numerous Train of Servants and Footmen: In the first Rank were the Electors of Mentz and Triers; in the fecond, those of Colen and Bahemia; in the third, those of Saxony and the Palatine, and in the fourth the Ambassador of Bavaria and Brandenburgh, their Mafters being ab-Sent, without any Marshals before them.

When they were arrived in the great Church, and had taken their Seats prepared on purpose for them, amongst which that of Triers was placed

ced in

Mass

the B

Electi

Electo

that

Hand

up b

they :

being fcribe

King

contra

Elect

Aters,

the E

ing b

of M

they

fome

oned

that

Peop

mean

Ment

purp

wide

their

Emp

Artic

Apa

men,

rals,

mias

the A

Fi

end-

here

ain

tical

keep you,

rnat

man

ctors

t to ere-

the

tion

lays ex-

fice.

red

ike-

the

s in

the

bees in

ired

en:

and

als-

ab-

rch,

placed ced in the middle, the Bishop of Worms fung the Mass of the Holy Ghost, and at the Elevation of the Bleffed Sacrament the Protestant Deputies withdrew. Afterwards the accustomed Oath of Election was administred upon the Millat, the Elector of Mentz giving it into the Hands of that of Triers, and he with all the rest into the Hands of the first: Then the Church being shut up by Papenheim, the Marshal of the Empire, they retired into the Sacriffy; where the Votes being then given, according to the Form prescribed in the Bulla Carolina, Leopoldus of Austria King of Hungary and Bobemia was elected nemine contradicente King of the Romans, and then each Elector calling five or fix of his principal Ministers, a publick Instrument was drawn to certifie the Election, and the new elected King, walking between the Electors of Triers and Colen, he of Mentz preceding, and the others following, they brought him to the great Altar, and after fome Prayers (pronounced by the aforementioned Bishop of Worms) they placed him upon it, that he might receive the Acclamations of the People, who had the News given them in the mean while by the Prepositus of the Cathedral of Mentz, ascended on a Pulpit erected for that purpose hard by the Church Gate, which was wide opened, and the Plebeans admitted to make their Acclamations. After this the new elected Emperor did swear to the Observation of the Articles prescribed to him; then the Electors coming from their Places, accompany'd Cefar to his Apartments in the following Order.

First of all (after a great Multitude of Footmen, Lackeys and Courtiers) march'd four Herals, with the Arms of Austria, Hungary, Bohemia, and the Empire upon their Breasts; then the Ambassadors of Bavaria, and Brandenburgh richly

richly mounted rode in the first Rank, follow'd by the Elector of Triers alone, after whom came the Prince of Hoenzollern hereditary Chambertlain (instead of Brandenburg) with the Sceptre and the Elector Palatine great Treasurer with the Imperial Crown, and the Earl of Zaik hereditary Trouckses or Sewer, (instead of Bavaria) with the Globe. Then follow'd after likewise on Horseback the Elector Duke of Saxony great Marshall with the great naked Sword in his hand, preceded by the Earl of Papenheim hereditary Marshal with the Scabbard, and after his Electoral Highness, came the Person of the elected Emperor, with the two Electors of Mentz and Colen on each side of him.

Being come in this Order to his Majesty's Palace, they all took leave of him, and returned every one to his Quarter, distributing the neceffary Commissions for the Preparation of the Solemnity of the Coronation: After this, his Majesty entertain'd the Electors at a most magnificent Feaft; and on the second of August the Ceremony of putting the Imperial Diamond upon his Head was perform'd in the same City of Frankfort, and not in Aquisgrane, as the Bulla orders it; which was occasion'd not only by a Fire that had happen'd there a few Months before, by which it was made uncapable to entertain so many great Princes and their Retinue, but likewise by the Differences then on foot between the Arch-bishops Electors of Mentz, and Colen, upon the Right of Crowning the new elected King of the Romans; the first usurping it to themselves, under pretence that the Predeceffors of the present Arch-bishop of Colen had forfeited this Right by neglecting to perform it; but the latter, alledging that the Reason why they had not performed it was only because they

tion or in caf fhould Mentz belong another they w nately Ear City b of Bo Black. princi great came ! elegan Crow ed an Almo ors a Guare Robes togetl Brana thedr order added dest I Majel was n Electe of Col jesty j that v him t almof

Nunti

ow'd came ibereptre with herearia) ewise great hand, itary ectoected and

CC.

s Pairned e nef the his magthe? d upty of Bulla by a s benterinue, t beand new rping rede-

had

m it;

why

cause

they

they were not Prieffs, challenged and obtained by way of friendly Composition the Reintegration of the faid Right; but upon Condition, that in case from that time forward this Solemnity should happen to be celebrated in the Diocess of Mentz, the prerogative of Crowning should then belong to the Archbishop of the same, and if in another Place, the faid Office should be alternately performed by them.

Early in the Morning, the Burghers of the City being all in Arms, and having laid a Bridge of Boards cover'd with four thousand Braces of Black, White, and Yellow Cloth, two of the principal Canons of Mentz and Colen, with a great number of Attendants and Followers, came to the Imperial Palace, and with a most elegant Speech, deliver'd unto his Majesty the Crown of Charles the Great, which was accepted and receiv'd with Expressions of Thanks. Almost at the same time the two Secular Electors arrived there, with a great number of Guards, and a noble Retinue, clothed in their Robes and Bonnets belonging to their Dignity, together with the Ambassadors of Bavaria and Brandenburg, to accompany the King to the Cathedral Church, which they did in the felt fame order as was observed before, only there was added a very rich Canopy, carried by the eldest Magistrates of the City, under which his Majesty marched to the Church Gate, where he was met and received by the three Ecclesiastick Electors in their Pontifical Robes, of whom that of Colen celebrated the Divine Office, his Majefty placing himself under a Majestical Throne that was erected on the Epistle side; and after him the Electors, over against whom, in a place almost even with it, was placed his Holiness's Nuntio, and the Amballadors of Spain, Penaranda.

da, and la Fuente, and after them the Princes Affiftants.

When Mals was ended, and the accustomed Oath taken by the new Cafar, in the Hands of the Elector of Colen, with the Affistance of the other two, he was by the same Archbishop anointed and inaugurated King of the Romans, then being brought into the Veftry, he put off the Electoral Robe, and put on the Royal Mantle, returning back again with it to the Altar, where he girded himself with the Sword of the said Emperor Charles the Great, put the Ring on his Finger, and took the Scepter and the Globe in his Hands, and then bowing down received the Crown, which was put on his Head jointly by the three Ecclefiaftick Electors; then having fung the To Deum, with the Discharge of all the Guns and Artillery, and the Elector that faid Mass bawing given the Benediction, His Imperial Majefty ascended on a little Scaffold erected in the fail Church, and created 14 Knights of the Empire giving each of them three light Strokes with the Imperial Sword upon the Shoulders.

This being done, the Procession marched again to the Town-Hall, leaving the Cloth that cover'd the abovementioned Bridge to be feized by the People; and the two Electors of Mentz and Colen held the Train of the Imperial Mantle. When his Imperial Majesty was come to the Town-hall, the Elector of Saxony, as supreme Marshal, gave Order that the Meat should be brought to Table; and in the interim, being mounted upon a curtous Horse, and riding into a great Heap of Oates placed before the Praterium, he performed the Ceremony of filling a Silver Pot to the bris with Oates, and then struck it with a Silver Rod; when this was over he gave it to his Substitute the Earl of Papenheim, leaving the rest to the was v

People.

Propl rine, ( and fl and w forer Medal fes or ria cut in the leavin Hoenz of the

for the Th his Im on a ] Tate d not fa were t the ri Bohem in the left fo with t for the burg: ner, a of Men Imperi a fhort bearer Majeft Electo fty's H Guefts alfo, t

Yard o

People. Afterwards appeared the Elector Palatine, Great Treasurer of the Empire, scattering and flinging Medals of Gold among the People; and was followed by the Earl of Sinzendorff, Treaforer hereditary, who likewise distributed Silver Medals ; and the Earl of Zaill hereditary Trouckfer or Seter, in the name of the Elector of Bavaria cut off a piece of a whole Ox that was roafted in the Piazza, and carried it into the Pratorium, leaving the reft to the People; and the Prince of Hoenzollern bereditary Chamberlain, in the room of the Elector of Brandenburgh, held the Bason for the Emperor to wash his Hands.

rinces

omed nds of

of the

noin-

then

e Ele-

e, re-

w.here

d Em

on his

obe in

d the

tly by

g fung

e Guns

als ha Aajefty

e faid

mpire ith the

d again

vn-hall,

Table;

Thus having all discharged their several Offices, his Imperial Majesty laid the Imperial Robes upon a Table prepared for the same purpose, and fate down to Dinner under, an elevated Throne not far diffant from which, some Steps lower, were the Places for the Electors. The first on the right Hand was for him of Mentz, then for Bohemia, Bavaria, and Brandenburgh absent; that in the middle of the Hall for Triers, and on the left for Colen, Saxony, and the Palatine: even cover'd with the Floor there was placed another Table by the for the Princes of Worms, Lobcowitz, and Aufand Co. burg: With this Order his Majesty began his Din-When ner, after the Benediction given by the Elector of Mentz, who as great Chancellour did wear the , gave Imperial Seal hanging about his Neck; and after a short space of time the Baron of Limburg, Cupa curi- bearer hereditary, folemnly presented auto his f Oates Majesty a Cup to drink, as a Substitute of the ed the Elector King of Bohemia. After this his Majee bris fty's Health was drunk, not only by the noble Rod; Guests in the Room, but by the common People afticute alfo, to whom by a spread Eagle erected in the to the Yard of the Pratorium, both white and red Wine People was very plentifully dispensed; as likewise a fuffifusicient Quantity of Bread during the whole time of the Dinner, which lasted for the space of four Hours; After which, Cafar being accompanied home by the Electors, the Entertainment concluded.

The Crown When the Kingdom of Italy was reputed part of Lombar- of the Empire, the German Emperors were also Crowned, with the Crown of Lombardy, which is made of Gold, and adorn'd with Diamonds, but having a little Band of polish'd Iron within it, gave it the Name of the Iron Crown; but now dispence with that Journey, and also that of being Crown'd at Rome, without any abatement of their Ancient Rights to those Crowns; for it is fettled by a known Law made at Francfort, Anno. 1338, and again at Cologn, Anno. 1339, that the first Election and Coronation of Germany Supplied those Omissions, and invested the Emperor with all the Rights and Dignities of the Roma The Emperor being thu and German Empire. Elected and Crown'd by the Princes Electors of the Empire, and Confirm'd by the Pape, has the Quality of Sovereign Monarch, the first Prince in ror's Authority.

Christendom, and all things are done in his Name, The Empe-tho' at the same time the whole Empire acts in general. He has Authority to Convoke Dyers, and other Imperial Assemblies, and to Prorogue or Dissolve them. The Resolutions of the Council and the Arrefts of the Imperial Chambers, and the Court, are Executed in his Name. He Confirms all Foreign Alliances and Treaties, Confers Ecclesiastical Preferments, not by the Popes Concession, as Ecclesiasticks would Suggest; but by an Immemorial Right, ever fince there were Bishops in the Empire. He has also the Power of Conferring Secular Dignities, as those of King, Prince, Arch-Duke, Duke, Marquis, Landgrave, Earl and Baron: Thus Henry 2d. erected the Duchy

Duck of Si Duke the 1 ampl ed in tends alfo made Gran Rober by Fe ample ron G of th Leopal Forei ror L

Th Prece Empi Pardo of the the It Electo and M of the the El have b of all t rough.

Prince

But fitions the N Agree

of the

Empir

whole

1 pace

ig ac-

rtain-

d part

e alfo

which

nonds,

hin it,

E now

of be-ent of or it is

Anno,

hat the y fup-

mperor

Roma

ng thu

tors of

has the

ince in

Name,

acts in

Dyets,

orogue

Coun-

ers, and

e Con-

Confers

Popes

ft; but

e were

Power

of King,

dgrave,

ted the

Duchy

Duchy of Hungaria into a Kingdom, in favour of Steven, who was then but a Duke Ladislaus, Duke of Bohemia, was made King of Bohemia by the Emperor Henry the Fourth: The same Examples of the Imperial Authority might be flewed in all other Degrees and Titles, which extends not only to the Subjects of the Empire, but also to Strangers, as John Earl of Arundel was made a Count of the Empire by Rudulphus 2d. the Grandfather to the Dutchess of Shrewsbury; Sir Robert Dudley, was made Duke of Northumberland by Ferdinand 2d in 1620, and to give a late Example, Charles Grandville Viscount Landsdown Baron Granville of Kilkhamton, was created a Count of the Sacred Roman Empire, by the Emperor Leopald. But the greatest Honour ever done to a Foreign Subject, is that paid lately by the Emperor Leopold, to his Grace the Duke &c. of Marlborough, by giving him a Vote in the Colledge of Princes, as Prince of Mindelheim.

The Emperor has the Right of deciding the Precedency among the Princes and Estates of the Empire, the Power of Life and Death; granting Pardon to Criminals, and disposing the Offices of the Court and the Empire, excepting that of the Imperial Chancellor, which belongs to the Elector of Mentz. Coins Mony, Grants Fairs and Markets, Receives and Disposes the Revenues of the Empire; and has the Right of Reassuming the Estates and Revenues of the Empire which have been Usurpt or Alienated; but the Chief of all the Rights he Possesses, is the Disposition of the Estates and Principalities that fall to the Empire, by Forfeiture or otherwise.

But he cannot raise New Taxes, or lay Impofitions upon the People, without the Confent of What he the Neighbouring Estates, and the Unanimous cannot do. Agreement of all the Electors by Majority of Voices,

Voices, nor can he put any Prince to the Imperial Ban, confiscate his Estate, or deprive him of his Voice in Dyers, nor Alienate the Estates or Revenues of the Empire, without the Approbation of the Electors and the other Princes and Estates: And tho' all things being acted in his Name, has led fome People to think his power is greater than in Troth and Reality it is ; He cannot alter the Establish'd Religion, nor make and publish New Laws, or Abolish Old ones; nor suppress the Courts of Justice, nor raise the Price of Mony, alter Weights and Measures, nor denounce War, either within or without the Empire, except upon Pressing Occasions, in pure Detence of his own Person, and before a Dyer can be Assembled. Nor can he by his own Authority Impose Subfidies, Taxes, or general Contributions, raife Men, Quarter his Troops, build New Fortresses, or make Peace without the Confent of the Estates of the Empire; for they having by woful Experience observ'd that many Emperors had attempted to make themselves Abso. Inte, and their Subjects Slaves to their Wills and Pleasures; they made the Imperial Dignity subject to such necessary Restrictions, as might secure the Empire in their Rights, without Danger of falling under an Arbitrary Power. This happy End they obtained by capitulating with their Emperors before their Election, and obliging them to confent to fuch Proposals as they thought neceffary for their own Safety, otherwise they would not elect them; by which means I fay they regained the Rights which are and must be observed to Perpetuity. These Proceedings were in nature of a Contract between the Empire and Emperor before his Election, and were ratified in the first place after he was proclaimed, which continues as a Barrier to the Emperor's

Auti Peop and Mon Con fence by d er, the i nion ded of G > ted T deri redu Tax fitio who fent ven pire gra no Pri hav to I the Em vid bot who Bill to g ned, Em

Impehim of ates or probaes and in his power ; He ones;

ife the es, nor
the n pure
a Dye

n Aul Conbuild c Cony hav-

Absorbls and y subfecure ger of happy r Emthen ht ne-

I fay uft be edings

Emwere imed,

erer's

Authority, prevents him from assuming, and the People from falling under a Despotick Power, and renders their Government a kind of a mixt Monarchy, as has been observed already. This Contract or Capitulation was originally the Essence of their Constitution, but being impaired by degrees, as their Emperors increased in Power, it was introduced de novo, under the Reign of the Emperor Charles V. who having large Dominions out of the Empire, the Electors apprehended he might infringe and prejudice the Liberties of Germany, and therefore made these Conditions an irrevocable Law, which the Emperor submitted to, and have continued in force ever since.

The Demesns of the Empire, which under Frederick I. were valued at 18 Millions of Livres, are reduced almost to nothing but what is raised by Taxes, Subfidies, Customs, and such like Impolitions; it was little better in Charles IV. Reign, who told the Deputies, the Estates of the Empire fent to him, that he received a much greater Revenue from Rohemia than all the rest of the Empire: And Cardinal Granville faid to the Landgrave of Heffe, that Charles V. his Master drew no Profit from the Empire, and that the German Princes ought to esteem it their Happiness to have a Monarch who was able by his own Estate to maintain the Imperial Dignity. At that time there was but one City which belonged to the Emperor as Emperor, for all the Lands were divided among the Electors, Princes, Bishops, Abbots, Earls, Lords, and free Cities; fo that when the Emperor came into those Parts, the Bishop of Bamberg withdrew from his own House to give the Emperor entertainment.

This Representation of the Weakness of the Why the Empire, in respect to its Revenues, would tempt House of one to enquire why the House of Austria should Austria strive with so much Zeal and Care to preserve Empire.

F

the

the Imperial Crown in their Family, since they draw so little Profit from the Demess, but this Objection will soon vanish, when we consider they enjoy many real and solid Advantages which supply Pecuniary Defects, tho' they are less apparent and visible; for besides the Glory of being the first Prince in Christendom, he has the Power of disposing all forfeited Estates and Honours to the Profit of his own Children, the only means of aggrandizing his House and putting them into a Possibility of changing the elective Empire into a Hereditary Monarchy.

We have already seen how many large Territories have by this means fallen to the House of Austria, so that there is no cause to wonder why that House should endeavour to perpetuate the Imperial Crown in their Family, tho' the Revenues of that Dignity are not proportionable to those of other neighbouring Nations; for besides the ordinary and extraordinary Duties and Impositions arising from the Imperial Cities, and otherwise, the Revenues are now very great, and if it may be said they are but poor Emperors, the Objection is answered, by saying they are rich and potent Princes, and able to turn the Scales to Investitures to Benefices. One of the principal Powers reserved to the Emperor, is the Investiture of all the Fiess of the Empire, becoming void by the Death of the last Male of the Family, or by Resignation; for the it is no Profit to his Imperial Majesty, because he gives all the Fees to his Officers, yet it shews his Grandeur, by so many great Princes paying him Homage, and receiving their Honours and Estates from his Bounty. The Ceremony of these Investitures are very sumptuous and magnificent, depending on the Pleasure of the Emperor, who does not always appoint the same Solemnity, but generally the first are the most splendid: His Grandeur

Gran his g the F anne ces. ditar tione cers Atte ror's shold Mast chan Baro Hun the for the dent The Tre nary and Fou Imp fider Cou Maj nera

Cou

T

Nass Mal nee

Blo

and

chie

Grandeur is also seen in the State and Number of his great Officers, among which I don't reckon the Hereditary Officers of the Empire, which are annex'd to the Dignities of the Electoral Princes, Ecclefiastical and Secular, or of their Hereditary and Perpetual Vicars, which were mentioned in another place, but only the great Officers of his Court, and fuch as are in ordinary Attendance. As the Great Master of the Emperor's Palace, the Great Chamberlain of his Houshold, the Great Marshal of the Court, the Great Master of the Horse, the Gentlemen of the Bedchamber a Hundred in Number, all Counts and Barons of the Empire: The Great Master of the Hunt, and the Master Falconer, the Captains of the Horse and Foot-Guards, Sixty or more Pages, for the Number is not limited, most of them Counts and Barons.

The Emperor has also near him three forts of Three forts Councils, besides the Council of the Court. First of Councils the Privy-Council of State, confisting of a President, Twenty Counsellors, and Six Clerks. The Council of the Chamber of Finances, or the Treasury-Chamber, where is concerted the ordinary and extraordinary Revenues of the Empire, and is composed of Two Presidents, a Director, Fourteen Assistants, and Six Secretaries Imperial Council of War, confifting of Two Presidents, which are Generals of the Army, Seven Counsellors, which are Marshals of the Camp, Major-Generals, Colonels, and the Auditor-General, with Registers, Secretaries, Commissaries, and others, of which Prince Eugene is at present chief President.

As for Example, the Emperor Adolphus of Nassau was depoted by the Princes Electors for Male-Administration, and engaging them in a needless War, to the effusion of much Christian Blood, and Desolation of the Empire. The De-

F 2

polition

t they t this r they of fupparent g the ver of to the ins of erriofe of why

e the levele to fides mpother-

into

if it Oband s to the last tho' is he him ates dewho but His eur

Examples of Depositions.

position of the Emperor Henry IV. was no less exemplary, against whom it was alledged, that he sold the Investitures of Benefices, slighted the Advices of the native Princes of the Empire, and governed by the Counsel of Strangers and Mechanicks; that he had made Peace with the Enemies of the Empire, that he might more easily oppress his own Subjects, and make the Fortunes of his own Creatures, by ruining the Estates Ecclesiastical and Civil, for which, upon the Complaint of the People, the Pope excommunicated him, and that Excommunication was the cause that he languished to Death, and that his dead Body continued Five Years without a Grave.

The Third Example is the Deposition of the Enperor Wenceslaws, after he had reigned 22 Years, because he disturbed the Peace of the Church, dismember'd the Empire, sold the Milaneze, and other Provinces and Cities in the Kingdom of Lombardy, and had murder'd Men with his own Hands. These and many other Complaints being made to the Electors they assembled, and having found him unworthy to exercise the Imperial Authority, they deposed him by a formal Sentence, pronounced by John Archbishop of Mentz, in the following Words.

We John Archbishop of the holy Church of Mentz, High Chancellor of the Sacred Roman and German Empire, &c. do make known to all Persons to whom these Presents shall come, that several wicked Actions being committed by the Lord Wincessay against the holy Church and Empire: We do in the Name of our Co-Electors and our own, hereby deprive and disposses the said Lord Wencessays of all the Imperial Dignities, as being an useless, make ent, wastful and unworthy Governor of the holy Roman Empire, declaring to all Princes, Lords, Knights, Nobles, Cities, Provinces and Subjects of the said holy Empire, that they are hereby discharged from the Homage and Oaths

A V

TI ral P Princ Prov Secul Barg ther lates Emp only Righ Deci who acco Book the l tho the I at In the ( Priv that that Voic thin Jance on, . Prel Lor the Fiets by C ture and Pion

Tax

Oaths that they have taken to the Person of Wince-Slaus in the Name of the Empire, &c.

The fecoud College after that of the Electo- The College ral Princes, comprehends not only all the other of the Princes, whether Archbishops, Bishops, Abbots, Princes. Provosts, and other Prelatical Princes, but the Seculars also, as Dukes, Marquesses, Landgraves, Bargraves, and other Earls and Princes; together with the Abbots, Abbesses, and other Prelates and Counts immediately depending on the Empire and Emperor; and therefore I shall not only name all those that have at this Day the Rights of Sellion, and Voices Deliberative and Decifive in this College or general Assemblies, who contribute to the Necessities of the Empire, according to the Taxes in the Matriculation Book; also we find many Princes and Estates of the Empire, which are not in this Predicament, tho' their Names are in the Matriculate, as the Dukes of Savoy and Lorrain, who may affift at Imperial Diets, but contribute nothing to the Charge of the Empire, by virtue of some Privileges of Election. There are also others that carry the Titles of Princes of the Empire, that for a long time have had neither Seat nor Voice in the Assemblies, nor contribute any thing to the Empire; as the Archbishops of Be-Sancon and Cambray, the Bishops of Geneva, Lyon, Lozan, the Abbot of St. Gall, and other Prelates, and some Princes, Earls, and Secular Lords, which take not their Investitures from the Emperor. There are only Princes whose Fiefs immediately appertain to the Empire, and by Consequence ought to receive their Investitures from the Emperor; as the Dukes of Milan and Mantua; the Marquelles of Monferras Final, Piombin, and others; but are not liable to the Taxes of the Empire, because they are only Fendatories, and not Members of it: And the Secular fs ex-

d the and Me-

tunes es Ec-Com-

caufe dead

of the ed 22 f the Mila-King-with Comobled, he the forhop of Mentz, erman whom Actions of the disposperial ul and decla-

Cities, that e and

Oaths

cular Princes that are Cadets of Great Families, tho' they bear the Titles of their Families, they pay no Taxes.

It's expected fomething should be said of the Pretentions of the House of Savoy to Spain upon this Occasion.

The Relation of the House of Savoy to the Branch of that of Austria, that became extinct in Spain by the Death of Charles II. in 1700. stands thus; Charles Emanuel I. Duke of Savoy, borh in 1562. Married at Sarragossa, in 1582. The Infanta Catherine Michelle of Austria, Daughter of Philip II. of Spain, by Elizabeth of France, his fecond Wife, which Philip which was Great Grandfather in direct Male Line, of Charles II. above mention'd. The Son and Successor of Charles Emanuel, by Catherine, was Victor Amadens I. who was the Father of Charles Emanuel II. who was succeeded in the Dutchy of Savoy by the present Duke Victor Amadeus II. in 1675. This Prince was born in 1666. and in 1684, Married the youngest Daughter of Philip Duke of Orleans, by Henrietta Maria, youngest Daughter of Charles I. King of England, and has five Children now living by her, viz. the Dutchess of Burgundy, now Dauphiness of France, the Dutchess of Anjou, or King Philip III. of Spain's Wife. The Prince of Piedmont, born in 1698, now about 13 Years Old, the Duke of Aoft, born in 1701. and the Duke of Chamlais, born in 1705.

It has been a Notion generally receiv'd, as if by the fecond Treaty of Partition, mad in 1699. the Duke of Savoy and his Issue Male were to succeed Arch-Duke Charles in the Kingdom of Spain, in case this last died without Issue; but nothing of that appearing by the Treaty itself, but indeed quite the contrary by the Ninth Article, it's proper we should relate it here.

If with Deat

Tfixth Indie Child (exce mean whor lign i happ be ma upon ver l him i mans, ther, Marr peal, the S never him or bo Contr fion, Emper Spain, to this to the House Emperand ne fake of quit,

ever ...

If the most Serene Arch-Duke happens to die without Issue, whether before or after the Death of the Catholick King [Charles II.]

The share that is always assign'd him by the fixth Article of Partition [which was Spain, the Indies and the Netherlands ] shall pass to such Child of the Emperor Leopold, Male or Female, (except the King of the Romans) [by whom is meant the Emperor Joseph, now Deceas'd 1 to whom his Imperial Majesty shall think fit to asfign it: And in Case his Imperial Majesty shall happen to Die before such Assignation, it may be made by the King of the Romans : But all this upon Condition that the faid Partition shall never be reunited, nor belong to the Person of him who shall be Emperor or King of the Romans, or who shall be both the one and the other, either by Succession, Will, Contract, or Marriage, Donation, Exchange, Cession, Appeal, Revolt, or any other way : In like manner the Share of the most Serene Archduke shall never be united nor belong to the Person of him who shall be King of France or Dauphin, or both together, whether by Succession, Will, Contract of Marriage, Donation, exchange, Ceffion, Appeal, Revolt, or any other way whatfoever ..

It does not appear that either of the two last Emperors made any disposal of the Crown of Spain, either by Will, or otherwise, pursuant to this Article, so that if any regard be to be had to the Succession of the German Branch of the House of Austria to the Spanish Dominions, the Emperor Joseph's eldest Daughter, born in 1701 and near 10 Years of Age, if King Charles, for the sake of the Empire which is not likely, should quit, seems to have the fairest Pretensions.

If

C.

ilies,

they

of the

upon

o the e ex-

1700.

Savoy,

1582.

stria,

eth of

h was harles

for of

Ama-

nel II.

yoy by

1675

1684

Duke

augh-

is five

hess of

Dut-

Wife.

low a-

orn in 705.

, as it

1699.

ere to

dom of

; but

itself,

Ninth

ere.

It's very well known, that the Dake of Savoy, in the beginning of the present War, giving his fecond Daughter in Marriage to the Duke of Anjou, acknowledged in Spain by the Title of Philip V. fided with the two Crowns; but at the same time, viz. in 1703. that the Confederates agreed to fet up Arch-Duke Charles for King of Spain, his Royal Highness of Savoy came over to the Grand Alliance, in Consideration of which, there were great Concessions made to him in Italy, and upon Recovering the Milaneze out of the French Hands, he was actually put into the Possession of the Mantuan, Monferat, Alexandria, &c. Nay common Fame went fo far as if it had been stipulated by a solemn Treaty, that in Cafe King Charles III. should Die withou Iffue, his Royal Highness, and his Iffue Male were to succeed him in all the Spanish Dominions, both within and without Europe; But of this and other Pretensions more may be faid in another place.

FINIS.

THE REPORT OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE

to the by the owns; e Conrles for y came tion of ade to filaneze put inAlexanar as if y, that without e Male inions, his and another